WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, Nov. 13, 1893

America's would—be Caesar has taken a step that cannot fail to give his administration a very undesirable place in history. It was the outspoken sympathy and moral support of the government of the United States extended to those who believe in a republican form of government, by every President from Washington to Harrison, that drove monarchy and its trappings from this continent. It would be utterly impossible to portray the indignation felt in Washington when it was officially announced that Mr. Cleveland had ordered that the American sailors and marines, now in the harbor of Honolulu, should assist in destroying the republican form of government in Hawaii and restoring that of the desposed Queen. At first it could scarcely be believed that the administration would dare take such a step, but it was soon found that it was all too true, and that the United States had a President willing to abuse the trust reposed in him by the people so far as to aid in restoring a deposed monarchy to power.

This is the way one of his apologists puts it: "The President has no idea that force of arms will be necessary. Had he anticipated such a necessity, instead of two American vessels in the harbor of Honolulu there would be half a dozen." In other words, the President was determined that the corrupt Hawaiian monarchy should be restored, if it took the whole strength of our navy to do it. Before these lines are read the infamous course begun by the hauling down of the American flag will probably have been completed by the wiping out of a republican government and the seating of a queen by force and under the personal orders of a President of the United States.

The indignation felt by republicans is fully shared by many democrats has been publicly made, "Cleveland ought to be impeached for this." Not a few people believe that the money of Claus Spreckels, the Hawaiian sugar king, has been an important factor in bringing about this disgraceful denouement. Spreckels a week in Washington a short time ago and he made no secret of his belief that the administration would restore the Queen, but everybody thought at that time that the idea was too preposterous to be even seriously considered.

Whether this matter is taken up by Congress will depend somewhat upon the news from Hawaii. Should the very unusual position taken by the administration result in bloodshed, as naval officers and others familiar with the situation on the island predict, there will be some very plain talk in Congress and it will not all come from republicans, either.

Mr. Cleveland has long been subject to fits of the sulks when things did not go to suit him, and he is now in the midst of one of the worst he has ever had, in Washington. He has been to the White House only once since the election and that was to attend a cabinet meeting. One of the cabinet was heard to remark after the meeting, "The old man's as cranky as a sick bear," and it is understood that he has snubbed nearly every man who has seen him since the great democratic defeats.

This administration is certainly contrary, if it is nothing else. It has been kept so busy finding fault with and trying to undo everything that was done by the Harrison administration that it has done nothing itself. One of the latest cases of fault finding is contained in the annual report of the first Assistant Post Master General, which declares that the experiment of free mail delivery in small towns and villages is a failure and recommends that it be suspendec at the close of the current year.

The report very graciously admits that the free delivery was when first established in the small towns and villages received with satisfaction and delight, but it then makes the remarkable statement that as soon as the novelty wore off the residents found it more convenient to call at the village post office for their mail than to have it brought to their houses by the carriers. I have not the data to dispute the assertion that the village free mail delivery is a failure, although I believe that the residents of the villages in which the experimental service now exists will, through their Congressmen, successfully do so.

The improvement in government finances which Mr. Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle were so positive would immediately follow the repeal of the purchasing clause of the silver law has not yet made its appearance. So far in the month of Noyember the government's expenditures have averaged about $200,000 a day more than its receipts from all sources. However the heaviest pavements for the month have been made, and the deficit will grow less from now until the first of the month when other large payments have to be made.

—We would like to say something good and kind about our enterprising citizen, J. W. Gephart, Esq., and probably may in the near future, but for the present the Gazette appears to have a patent right on that gentleman; but it is satisfactory to know that the patent expires in a few weeks by its own volition.

A CONDUCTOR'S EXPERIENCE.

W. B. Price, conductor on the day express. has some novel experiences on his daily runs, which are ludicrous as well as appealing to the betterside of his nature. His greatest annoyance is with women who board the train at different points along the route, generally at stations in the mining districts. A recent case was that of a woman getting on at Philipsburg and when Will asked for her ticket she only had ten cents. This she gave him saying carry me as far as the money pays for. The next station happened to be the one she had paid to and Conductor Price told her to get off, but instead the woman fumbled around in her pockets, pulled out four cents handed it to him with the remark carry me as far as the four cents will pay for. The next point she paid three cents and kept that up until she was landed at Houtzdale. Her object was to get a free ride if possible, but finding the conductor obdurate paid her fare in dribs from station to station. Nearly every day Conductor Price has similar experiences, but as a rule he has got on to the racket and can read these women at first glance.—Curwensville Review.

BUSINESS INTERESTS.

Reports from Western Pennsylvania indicate a brighter outlook for all classes of trade which are identified with the manufacture of iron and steel. Shipments of coak increased last week ½ per cent. and soft coal moved more freely. The improvement, while steady, is only slight, however.

A large New York banking house had millions of dollars offered to it last week at 3½ per cent. for six months, and says that the rate is getting easier all the time. The purpose of the government to coin its seignorage into silver dollars will increase the volume of currency so much as to produce an actual inflation and even cheaper rates of money.

SOLICITING A STRIKE.

A committee of the striking Sandy Run miners in the Broad Top region visited yesterday the Six Mile Run miners, who had accepted a 10 per cent. reduction, and refused to quit work, in order to induce the latter if possible, to join in the strike. The Six-Mile Run men finally agreed to quit work, but this morning they reconsidered their decision and resumed work.

No efforts have yet been made b the Sandy Run strikers to obtain the co-operation of the Rockhill miners in the East Broad Top region. The latter have been idle for the past six months, owing to the enforced shutdown of the Rockhill furnaces.

A MINISTER'S FAREWELL.

A Minnesota minister recently took leave of his congregation in the following pathetic manner:

"Brothers and sisters I have come here to say good bye. I don't think God loves this church very much because none of you ever die. I don't think you love each other, because I never married any of you. I don't think you love me, as you have not paid my salary, and your donations are mouldy fruit and wormy apples, and 'by their fruits ye shall know them.' Brothers I am going away to a better place. I have been called to be chaplain of Waupon penitentiary and I go to prepare a place for you.

BEECH CREEK COAL LAND.

Capitalists in the interest of the Beech Creek railroad, says the Philadelphia Inquirer, are negotiating for the purchase of 10,000 acres of Coal land in the Houtzdale district and the bargain has been practically closed. The acquisition of this tract will give the Beech Creek shippers control of about all the undeveloped coal land of the Moshannon vein left. When the projected extensions of the Beech Creek are completed an immense area of new coal territory will be made tributary to the road and a largely increased tonnage will be placed on the market.

MINING TOWN SINKING.

The little mining town of Centralia is in danger of a cave-in as the surface over part of the Centralia colliery has sunken and many houses are in danger. Quite a number of families have moved out of their houses. Monday night several large crevices appeared in the middle of the street, one of which is six inches in width, and runs under the Episcopal church, which is already badly damaged. Centralia is in the corner just where Northumberland and Schuylkill counties meet.

—The wind whistled winterish Wednesday.

THE GREAT AMERICAN WRECKER.

In vain the Democrats are trying to find some excuse for the political revolution of last Tuesday. In vain they turn to the Silver law and other causes. The responsibility does not rest there, either, for the industrial or political disaster. The commercial depression of the present year has inflicted greater harm upon the country and involved the nation in heavier losses than any that preceeded it. The interests of justice require that the responsibility for this disaster, that followed closely upon the most prosperous year in our history, shall be definitely fixed. The author of the calamities that have befallen the country is Grover Celveland. He has the distinction that, more than any other American, he has been a destroyer of wealth and the cause of the impoverishment of millions of his countrymen.

The industrial prostration of 1893 is the culmination of the attack upon the protective system boldly delivered by Mr. Cleveland in his famous message to Congress in December, 1887. As Professor Taussing expresses it, in the Quarterly Journal of Economics:

The Democrats after years of half hearted attack on the policy of high protection, were finally spurred to an unequivocal statement of their intentions by the courageous message of President Cleveland.

Knowing nothing about the tariff question or any other economic question, he saw that, as the Republicans were unqualifiedly for protection, his party would probably gain strength from all the discontented and disaffected elements in the population if it should boldly stand for the contrary policy. His courage forced his party clear over to the side of free trade, and his dogged persistence has held it in that position ever since. In his message he sounded the keynote for all the denunciations of the tariff which have influenced the minds and excited the prejudices of certain of the people from that time to this. Speaking with the weight of authority, which he had solely because of his high position, he declared that the manufacturers of the country were using the tariff for their exclusive advantage, at the expense of the people. He denounced them as plunderers, and he insisted that the workingmen were their chief victims. He urged that the high wages earned by laborers were not really high because the robber manufacturers compelled their victims to pay unfair prices for commodities; and he put himself forward as the champion of the oppressed and the downtrodden, demanding that they should be releived of the heavy load of taxation imposed upon them for the benefit of a small class of privileged citizens.

Appeals of this kind to the passions and the prejudices of the ignorant have filled the Democratic Journals ever since, The gross misstatements made by the President were amplified and added to until the land was flooded with lies, and until, in 1892, enough sentiment hostile to the tariff had been created to permit the author of these calumnies to climb back to power upon a platform pledging him and his party to give to the country outright free trade.

His advent to office with such a pledge, and with the power to make it good, closed the mill doors all over the country and forced two or three million men into idleness. It caused a shrinkage of values involving thousands of millions of dollars, and it has inflicted upon the country losses of incalculable dimensions through the suspension of business operations. Add to these the loss following upon the idleness for many months of great bodies of wealth producers, and there can be no difficulty in perceiving that, so far as money is concerned, Jefferson Davis cost this country much less than Grover Cleveland has cost it. The manufacturers, who regard with dismay the shrinkage of their capital, know that the shrinkage is due solely to his action. The merchants who find their business reduced almost to nothing, are aware that it has vanished beneath the touch of the destroyer in the White House. The working people who are hungry and who have to choose between those favorite Democratic resorts, the souphouse or the poorhouse, may learn that the bread has been taken from their mouths and the mouths of their children by the politican who, six years ago, began his movement for wrecking industry by pretending that the workingmen was the object of his most tender solicitude.

This is the fact. It is the fact as it will surely be recognized and recorded by the historian who shall undertake to present an accurate statement of the causes of the hard times from which we are now suffering. No wonder that, as Mr. Cleveland stands amid the ruins of the industries which he has overthrown—no wonder that, as he observes great multitudes of his victims facing the winter without wages or the prospect of any—he should be eager to shift the blame for all this misery upon the Republican Silver Law. No wonder that he is equally anxious that the wreckage of his party shall be attributed to the same cause. The effort is unavailing. The silver purchases are stopped and still the depression continues without abatement. His own desperate attempt to prove his innocence has only served to demonstrate clearly the fact of his guilt. The great American Wrecker bears the whole burden upon his own shoulders.

A HALLOW PRETENSE.

The Chicago platform of the Democratic party declares. "We favor just and equal pensions for all disabled Union soldiers, their widows and orphans." A national platform never continued a more hollow and deceitful promise. The history of pension legislation since the advent of the Democratic party has been one of absolute unfairness to our country's defenders in its hour of peril and need.

Instead of justice and liberality to disabled Union soldiers and their widows the first thing the Democratic Administration did under Hoke Smith was to change the regulations of the department to make it more difficult to prove cases and to demand proofs which were almost impossible to produce. Having changed the regulations, which they had a right to do, they have undertaken to review cases to the extent of 350,000, which they had no right to do. This work could not be done and the office force at the same time keep up the current work. As a result the current work has of course suffered.

According to General Raum, the present Commissioner of Pensions, aided by the Secretary of the Interior, has suspended over 13,000 cases, many of which were as fair and just claims against the government as any that have ever been allowed for any purpose. As proof of this it is only necessary to say that the storm of indignation which followed the exposure of this wanton and unnecessary cruelty to the veterans of the war has compelled the Department to reinstate 6,772 of these suspended cases.

It is doubtful if any of the remainder will be dropped from the rolls. This action was neither actuated common sense, justice nor patriotism, but simply by a desire to annoy and harass Union soldiers who were in a measure dependent, in consequence of injuries received during the war, upon this pittance for support.

As Hon. George D. Meiklejohn of Nebraska, member of the House Committee on Invalid Pensions, truly remarks, of net result of Democratic treatment of alleged pension frauds may be summarized as follows:

"Net Result—Democracy has exhibited its hatred of the loyal soldier; made an unprovoked and cowardly assault upon his honor: deprived him of the small pittance due at a time when, because of a Democratic panic, he could least bear the privation: manifested its own unfitness to be trusted with the affairs of a great nation, but unwittingly demonstrated what every intelligent minded man always knew—that the pension fraud is the rare exception, and that the pension roll is, in fact, a roll of honor."

BUSINESS AFFAIRS.

In looking over last week's commercial report we find that there were 361 failures in the United States against 210 for the same week last year, a gain of 151 failures, per week. If this continues, it might be properly asked, what condition will the country be in one year hence? These facts should be looked straight in the face, by our law makers, who should discard political partisanship and devise laws that would restore confidence and set the wheels of our varied industries in motion. Will they do it? The repeal of the silver bill failed to accomplish that pressing necessity, and now other measures must be decided upon to bring about a better state of commercial affairs.

Several manufactories have started up on quarter and half time, but in every case, with a reduction of wages from 15 to 40 per cent. The Valentine ore banks, if we are correctly informed, will commence this week on a single day turn, to mine ore, the men submitting to a reduction of wages from $1.25 per day to 95 cents. The Morris line kilns have been put in operation at a reduction in wages of 15 to 25 per cent, the quarrymen receiving less than one dollar per day.

While we are pleased to see even that little improvement, the question arises how is one of these day laborers, with a family offive to support, and pay from six to eight dollars rent per month, going to manage to make both ends meet without a corresponding reduction is made in what enters into his living? This is a serious question and must be solved favorably to the workman, or else America will in a few generations hence become a second Italy.

—Quite a large crowd ate supper at the Episcopal rectory Thursday evening. The oysters, ice cream and cake served were delicious.

LOOKING AHEAD.

Republicans and Democrats Discussing Next Year's Contest.

A Washington dispatch says: With a tremendous majority to enthuse them the Pennsylvania Republican leaders who are returning here are discussing the contest over the gubernatorial nomination next year and the various candidates who are after it either openly or on the quiet. The size of the majority on Tuesday put a quietus to all talk of a combine between the Democrats, Populist and Prohibitionists which might carry the state, and no one here doubts but that the Republican nominee next year will carry the state by a majority of 75,000. Therefore the merits and demerits of the various candidates are being considered.

All concede that with an open field Gen. D. H. Hastings seem to be the favorite. This, coupled with the fact that Senator Quay does not attempt to disguise his friend ship for the general, and that State Chairman Gilkeson has espoused his cause gives rise to the impression in some circles that he will win rather easily. It is strongly held that the general's course at Johnstown made him thousands of friends throughout the state and that they will be heard from next year.

For the lieutenant-governorship Congressman Jack Robinson of Chester is the only one discussed at Washington, but it is said he is only a candidate if Gen. Hastings gets the first place. Lieut.—Gov. Watres has some strong friends who would accept, but he is a candidate for the higher place. Ex-Congressman Huff is also mentioned, but this office will undoubtedly depend on the nomination for the first place.

The Democracy.

On the Democratic side no one seems to want the empty honor since the result on Tuesday last was announced. Congressman Sibley said yesterday again that he was not a candidate and would not ask for any support to get it. If he is tendered the nomination practically unanimously he will accept, but not otherwise. This contingency, it is not believed, will arise. The Democratic convention will perforce indorse the Cleveland administration and therefore its financial policy. It could hardly then turn around and nominate an avowed advocate of free coinage of silver like Mr. Sibley to head the ticket. In fact it is stated Mr. Sibley would not run on a platform containing a gold standard plank.

The general impression here is that Attorney-General Hensel will be nominated to lead the forlorn hope of the Democracy next year. He wants the nomination and no one else does so far as known.

IMPORTANT BUSINESS CHARGE.

The law firm of Beaver, Gephart & Dale, which has existed for eight years or more, has, we learn, been dissolved, in consequence of the retirement of Mr. Gephart who is compelled to give his entire time to the business of The Valentine Iron Company, of which he is President, and of The Central Railroad Company of Pennsylvania, of which he is the General Superintendent,

A new firm, consisting of Gen. Beaver and John M. Dale, has been constituted, to be known as "Beaver & Dale." We understand that Gen. Beaver will give his personal attention to practice in the future, attending all the courts and being found at the offices of the firm in the early and latter parts of each week. It will probably be necessary for him to give two or three days in the middle of the week to other business engagements.

RAILROAD NEWS.

A radical change in the running of passenger trains over the Beech Creek railroad will shortly go into effect, the most important being the change in the arrival of the Evening express, due here now at 8 o'clock. This, under the new schedule, instead of leaving Clearfield at 3.55 o'clock, will not start on its eastward journey until 7, arriving in Williamsport after 10, with a through sleeper to eastern cities attached. Other trains will not be so greatly affected. The principal feature of the whole, however, is the placing of passenger trains on the new Central Pennsylvania road, a branch of the Beech Creek, which forms a junction with the main line at the town of Beech Creek and having its terminus at Bellefonte. These will consist of two trains daily from the latter point to this city, giving Willamsport the advantage of four more trains, two in and two out, an addition in that direction that must prove beneficial, not only to this place, Bellefonte and the towns along the route, but to the traveling public in general.—Williamsport Sun.

A new schedule will go into effect on the Pennsylvania railroad next Sunday. It will mark some most important changes, especially in the through train service, and will undoubtedly be the subject of a great deal of comment for some time. As a general rule the Pennsylvania Railroad company does not alter its through service to any considerable extent when establishing a winter schedule, but, as a glance at the new schedule will show, there has been a general stirring up on this occasion and the schedule has been materially altered.

As stated in this paper a few days ago, the keystone and the columbian express trains, with the exception of the New York and Chicago limited, the finest vestibuled trains in the Pennsylvania's service, will be discontinued after next Sunday. This will be unwelcome news to a great many patrons of the road, especially to traveling men, who have come to regard these trains as especially well arranged for them. The railroad company, however, assumes that these trains were only put in service to accommodate its world's fair patrons, and now that the traffic has resumed its normal state there is no further need for this service.

The most important changes will be in the Western express which will be 30 minutes earlier than now. Day express will not be changed. No. 8 train will be one hour later. New York limited will be one hour and twenty minutes earlier going west and fast line west 30 minutes earlier. Passengers will do well to take notice.

BOARD OF TRADE.

Held a Lively Meeting on Tuesday Evening—Business Transacted.

There was a large turn out of members of the Bellefonte Board of Trade at the regular meeting Tuesday evening. President James Harris called the meeting to order and secretary Clement Dale, Esq. read the minutes of last meeting, which were approved.

Secretary Dale also read a communication from the Standard Scale Company, Pittsburg, asking to be supplied with Board of Trade circulars for distribution. Bills to the amount of $9.90, for engraving plates for newspaper offices, were ordered paid.

Four communications were received, being contestants on prize essays. Col. Shortlidge and H. Sechler, Mr. Fiedler and Mr. Charles Kurtz were appointed a committee on contesting essays.

Mr. Andrew Brockerhoff stated that there was from six to eight acres of flat land lying along Spring Creek which the Brockerhoff estate would donate, free of cost, to any reliable manufacturing firm or firms who would occupy it.

The secretary read slips from papers which were advertisements from firms desiring locations. These had been written to but not yet heard from.

The thanks of the Board were returned to Mr. Andrew Brockerhoff for his friendly offer.

In regard to renting a room for the Board to meet in, it was decided to remain in the arbitration room, and employ the janitor to take charge of the room and furnish chairs.

The Board acted on the suggestion contained in Monday's DAILY NEWS, and provided for the collecting and classifying of the products of Centre county.

Col. Shortlidge recommended, as a mark of confidence and respect, that a banquet be given J. W. Gephart, Esq., for his eminent services in organizing the Valentine Furnace Co., and the Central Pennsylvania railroad, and the pushing to completion of the latter. Action on this suggestion was laid over for the next meeting.

Mr. Sechler presented for the Board's action, a map showing all the industries about Bellefonte; also, sites for same, and proposed the printing and circulating of the same.

HELP THE POOR.

How many of Bellefonte's well-to-do citizens know, or even care, aught about the poor, living in Bellefonte? Perhaps it is thought that there are none here but who have at least sufficient to clothe and feed themselves, but such is not the case. Owing to the closing down of so many of the works in this vicinity, a large number of our most worthy laboring men have had little to do for months and now that the cold, chilling blasts of winter are coming on these people are almost destitute; especially are they sadly in need of more and better clothing, fuel and food. Several cases have come under our certain knowledge where men, who have families, who always work when work was to be had and who were never known to ask for help, have gone to mill-owners and begged for a sack of flour to keep them from starving. Is not such a condition pitiable and deserving of generous assistance,—not charity. Such men do not ask charity; they want work whereby they can honestly earn enough to support their wives and children. Verily the citizens of this town would do well to investigate the condition of the poor.

HOLDING UP A STAGE.

A LONE HIGHWAYMAN CAN DO IT, BUT HE MUST BE CLEAR GRIT.

When Chumps Try It, the First Attempt Generally Ends Their Career—How Wyoming Charlie Met His Death Through the Pluck of a Woman.

"A stage with six passengers in it held up by one man, and the paper says they were a pack of cowards," said the man in the seat ahead as he turned himself round.

"Well, let me tell you there's another side to it. I've been right on deck on several occasions when a holdup didn't work worth a cent. The papers never seem to get hold of the other side though."

"Let's go and have a cigar and talk about road agents. If you have been held up, give us the particulars."

"Yes, I've been held up," he said as we got seated in the smoker. "My first experience was about 12 miles from Tuscarora, Nev. There were seven men in the coach, and every one of us had shooting irons and sand enough to use them. We were stopped just where we didn't expect it, and that was the trouble.

"Before we knew what was up a fellow had us covered with two revolvers. It wasn't his guns that made us take water so much as his general demeanor. You had only to glance at him to realize that he was a devil and held human life as cheap as dirt. He could keep all of us covered, but we had no show at him. If one of us had fired and missed, he'd have downed the whole crowd before he stopped shooting. I believe that any one of us if alone in the stage would have pulled down on him, but as it was each one feared to draw his vengeance on the rest. He took watches, rings and money to the value of $5,000 from our crowd. He had us stuck up for half an hour, and there wasn't a second in that time he didn't have his eye on every man and hold himself ready for a shot. That chap stopped over a dozen stages before he got his dose."

"And you spoke of several failures."

"Yes, I have witnessed several. Of all the road agents in the west for the last 20 years not more than five or six had any business to take to that line. The others were chumps and failures. Why, I've been from Cheyenne north when we'd pass three or four dead bodies in a day—corpses of chumps who'd tried to make a holdup and got left. One day, about 10 miles south of the Platte, when there were five of us in the stage, a fellow jumped out and yelled his yell. Every man in the stage knew he was a galoot by his antics and the trembling of his voice, and we weren't a bit surprised when the driver out with his gun and dropped him without checking the gait of his horses."

"Then a man has got to be a good one to make a successful holdup?" I asked.

"There's where you hit hard pan," he answered. "There may be cowards traveling around out west, but I never met any. The idea that five or six well heeled men are going to submit to being cleaned out by one if there's a show to stop him is all bosh. It's all in the man and his way of doing business. If he's got a voice with a sort of laugh to it; if he's got a gun in either hand and keeps 'em moving about like the heads of snakes traveling through the grass; if his eyes seem to be looking right through you and watching everybody else at the same time, don't make a fool of yourself."

"You mean give up your boodle?"

"Exactly and don't be too long about it, either, for those chaps are always in a hurry. These newspaper men seem to imagine that the passengers in a coach sit with revolvers in their hands throughout the trip. Their guns are right down in their hind pockets, of course. Give 'em five minutes to get ready and they'd clear the road, but they don't have five seconds. When you get the hail, you know you're covered. Only one man—the one next to the door—could do any shooting anyhow, and he'd be more apt to miss than to hit. What then? Why, the robber would turn loose and kill or cripple everybody inside quick-er'n you could count.

"You have probably noticed a limp in my gait? That comes from a bullet I got in my left knee when the Deadwood stage was held up by Wyoming Charlie. It was in the afternoon, and there were six of us. A tenderfoot had the seat by the window, and he thought he'd show his sand by opening fire with his pop. The robber wasn't 15 feet away, and the idiot had three shots at him without a touch. The shooting made him mad, and he began firing right and left into the stage. He killed two men and wounded the other four, and all of us were robbed besides. The tenderfoot was one of the killed, and I can't say I was ever sorry about it."

"I think I remember reading that Wyoming Charlie was killed while holding up a stage somewhere out west."

"Yes, down near Plum creek, in Nebraska, and it was curious how it came about. There were seven passengers, and one of 'em was a woman—the wife of a cattleman. She was with the driver, on top. Charlie took the outfit at a turn in the road and made a complete surprise. He got the men out and in line, and when his back was turned the woman fired at him with a derringer.

"Her bullet passed through his hat, and as he wheeled about to see what was going on one of his own guns was accidentally discharged, and the ball entered his groin. I saw him at Plum creek before he died. He was a tough looking customer, and even in dying he boasted of the number of men he had killed. I forget his figures, but everybody was willing to believe he had killed a full dozen. He'd been robbing for a year or so and had several thousand dollars planted somewhere along the Niobrara river.

"If he had any relatives, he didn't care for 'em, and when he found he was going over the creek he tells the woman who shot him where he had cached his plunder and just how to find it. I had this right from her own lips, and I know that her husband afterward got the money. Queer, wasn't it, being as she brought about his death? But he didn't lay it up against her. He was a born road agent and had the business down so pat that it was almost a pleasure to be robbed by him."—Detroit Free Press.

No Hurry.

He (who has just been accepted)—Carrie, darling! Do you know you have made me the happiest man in the world?

She—Yes, Harry, but we must not be married right off—not for a long, long time.

He—Oh, that's all right. That just suits me, you know. I'd like to remain the happiest man in the world for a year or two.—Boston Transcript.

Familiar With the Subject.

Teacher—Why can't you learn to calculate interest as nicely as Tommy Traddles?

Dull Boy—I ain't had so much experience as he has. Our house ain't mortgaged.—Good News.

THE MYSTIC SHRINE.

A Legend of the Secret Tribunal's Swift and Fearful Punishment.

According to the ancient ritualistic provisions in the shrine's history, it was evidently established as a politico-religious order and destined to become a formidable oriental power, its mission being to aid the distressed, comfort the afflicted, protect the innocent, harmonize rank and station, overthrow fanaticism, obliterate intolerance, bring the guilty to justice and perpetuate the welfare of mankind. Thus they become the exponents of a secret tribunal to judge and punish the traitor, the murderer, the despoiler of innocence, the violator and desecrator of sacred vows; to apprehend, judge and execute at one conclave, striking terror to the destroying element of crime by consigning the condemned to the rack, bowstring or pyre of the shrine, their fleet justice leaving a purifying admonition to those who knew not the fate of the departed.

"The Legendary History of the Oriental Shrine" thus depicts one phase of the secret tribunal: The grave, stern and masked tribunal sits in solemn council. Their terrible meditations and intent none could penetrate; their purpose was as undecipherable as their identity. The culprit, defiant of their secret power, when loosed from his hempen thongs, appears, arraigned for judgment and stands before the piercing gaze of the tribunal, with its all powerful "council of thirteen," doggedly sullen and undismayed by the array of block, bowstring, rack and blazing crucibles. If guilty, he neither seeks nor expects mercy, knowing that mercy for the impious prevails not here. Their cause is justice.

The palpable proofs of guilt being sure, the result is as immutable as God's decree. But still does he his innocence protest. The frowning council grant one last privilege—a final proof to justify his plea by his Moslem faith. If so he dares, he advances alone to the sacred dais, and in token of his innocence embraces the holy nymph of paradise, "the houri of the shrine." With joyous pace the victim hastens to the colossal statue, where in marvelous grandeur, by crafty hand beauteously carved in stone, with outstretched arms and saintly face, sweet with calm serenity she stands, seeming even to pity from her throne.

The mystic form he scarce embraces when, quick as transit of a meteor, he finds his frail body wrapped as in a vise. Those horrid arms, with keen and triple edged blades, nail him powerless and quivering to her lance clad breast with deadly and unerring power until, crushed, carved and gory, the expiring form is rent asunder. The houri statue swerves apart, relaxing her fiendish grasp of stone, and hurls the riven victim deep into the hideous engulfing trap below, where, grim, dark and loathsome, may be heard the distant and monotonous rippling of the turbid carnadine waters, echoing from the eternal chasm of the dead. The tribunal has done its duty. Retribution has fallen upon the fated malefactor, and the vengeance of the shrine is satisfied.

This is but one of the storied mysteries of the oriental shrine.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Protection From Lightning.

If the reader is contemplating the erection of a lightning protector, these points may of service to him:

First—Get a good iron or copper conductor of rod or tape form, preferably the latter. If copper, have it weigh about six ounces to the foot; if iron, about two pounds to the foot.

Second—The nature of the locality will determine to a great degree the need of a rod. In some localities rods are imperative, in others needless.

Third—The very best ground you can get is, after all, for some flashes none too good. Therefore do not imagine that you can overdo it in making a good ground.

Fourth—"If the conductor at any part of its course goes near water or gas mains, it is best to connect it to them. Wherever one metal ramification approaches another it is best to connect them metallically."

Fifth—The top of the rod should be plated or in some way protected from corrosion and rust.

Sixth—Independent grounds are preferable to water and gas mains.

Seventh—Clusters of points or groups of two or three along the ridge rod are recommended.

Eighth—Chain or link conductors are of little use.

Ninth—Very little faith is to be placed in the so called area of protection.

Tenth—Indifference of lightning to the path of least resistance. Nearly every one who has written in late years has taken it for granted that lightning always follows the path of least resistance. This is not true.

Eleventh—Any part of a building, under certain conditions, may be struck whether there is a protector on it or not.—Popular Science Monthly.

Topham's Wonderful Strength.

Thomas Topham, born in London in 1710, was a man possessed of extraordinary strength. He once lifted three casks filled with water and weighing in all 1,836 pounds. He is said to have had the combined strength of 12 men.

He could bend a stout bar of iron by holding the two ends with his hands, placing the middle of the bar behind his neck and bringing the two ends forward. He could also undo what he had done—that is, straightening the bar again, a much more difficult feat.

He broke a rope fastened to the ground that would sustain 2,000 weight and lifted an oak table 6 feet long with his teeth, though a half hundred weight was hung at the extremity. With one hand he raised a man who weighed 27 stone.

Once, seeing a watchman asleep in his box, he carried away both man and box a long distance. It is said of him that, having been placed on some duty at the entrance gate of a race course, he refused to allow a four horse coach to go through. On the driver whipping up his horses and attempting to pass, Topham took hold of the hind wheels of the coach and upset it and its occupants into the roadway.

Topham, who kept a public house in Islington, had a wife who quarreled with him to such an extent that she drove him to commit suicide.—Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

Very Risky.

Wife—Charles, do you think those hair dyes are dangerous?

Husband—I know they are. I had a rich old uncle who was going to leave me all his property. He dyed his hair, and three weeks afterward he was married to a widow with five children, and I was left out in the cold. I should say they were dangerous.—Texas Siftings.

His Language.

Jinks—I now understand why barbers do so much talking.

Filkins—What has enlightened you?

Jinks—I shaved myself today, and I assure you I talked all the time.—Kate Field's Washington.

AN IMPORTED PUPPY.

He Proves a Wonderful Object Lesson In Custom House Circumlocution.

Plato White, a Los Angeles physician, was so tangled up in custom house red tape recently that he was almost in despair of ever freeing himself. He arrived at San Francisco from Honolulu on a Tuesday with a 2-month-old Japanese pug pup. In accordance with the rules of the ship the animal had been taken in charge by the purser, who inadvertently entered it on the ship's manifest. This should not have been done, as pet dogs are allowed to enter duty free. But the pup was listed nevertheless, and it would require an order from the collector of the port to get it from the customs officials.

"I never did so much chasing for so little return in all my life before," the doctor said. "I first went to the deputy surveyor and told him my case. He advised me to hire a customs broker, who would 'know the ropes.' I employed H. B. Thomas, and together we went to the deputy collector. He referred us to Special Deputy Collector Jerome. Mr. Jerome made out a free delivery permit for the dog, but said that he could not sign it till the appraiser had indorsed it with the statement that that howling little pup had no commercial value."

"We went to the appraiser and described the dog. He wrote a note to Mr. Jerome saying he knew something about dogs, and it was his opinion that the dog had no commercial value. We went from the appraiser's building to the custom house with this. Mr. Jerome refused to accept the note as an official notification. He sent us back to have the statement properly written on the delivery permit. The appraiser did not want to give this statement till he was officially notified as to the pup's actual value and detailed Special Examiner Maguire to go to the docks and examine into the dog's value.

"Wednesday night I thought my labors were finished. The examiner reported to the appraiser that the dog was of no commercial value. Thursday morning I appeared to have my permit properly indorsed. This could not be done, as in the meanwhile another examiner had been nosing about the dog stores and reported that fanciers priced similar dogs at $7.50 each. This the appraiser wrote on the delivery permit, but accompanied it with a note advising that the dog be admitted duty free. I took this again to Mr. Jerome. He said his duty was plain.

"The dog was valued at $7.50, according to the appraiser, and I would have to pay 20 per cent duty on that. He admitted that the dog was entitled to free admission, but said that the appraiser must first properly countersign the permit. This at last the appraiser did. He scratched out the $7.50 and wrote that the dog had no commercial value. Then Jerome signed the permit, and after nearly two days' work of myself and a customs broker, a day's work of two appraiser's examiners and much loss of temper, I was given my $2 Japanese pup. Believe me," he concluded earnestly, "the custom house, and especially the appraiser's department, is a place of marvelous expedition."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Deathbed Selfishness.

A species of selfishness that from the very nature of it has been but very little condemned, though deserving far greater reproof than it has ever received, is the binding of fetters upon the living by those about to leave this world. Many a promise made to a dying friend or relative has been the means of turning the whole current of a life, and when it is too late to be absolved from the bond the bereaved one discovers that in the agony of parting vows were taken that will act as a hindrance through all the future.

Have you not seen many instances where a single sister has taken upon herself the care of little ones left motherless? This charge, which the woman's soul regards as a holy office, is in many instances the barrier between her and all the natural sweets of this life which she had a right to expect and to enjoy. The cares and responsibilities attendant upon the bringing up of the little ones left to her charge age her long before the time when one expects a dignified demeanor and a sober carriage. She puts away from her all the joy and lightness and shoulders her burden with not a word, her lips sealed and her life ruined by a promise from which she can never be absolved.

In many other ways women and men fetter themselves by vows made at the bedside of the dying, and of course the thing will go on as long as hearts bleed and eyes grow dim at parting from beloved friends, but it is not right nevertheless, and in many cases the exactions required mean expense, labor and sacrifice that do not appear in the mere saying of the words, but which are the after result that mar so many lives hitherto bright and hopeful.—Philadelphia Times.

Artificial India Rubber.

Artificial india rubber from cottonseed oil is one of the latest industrial products. It is claimed to possess commercial adaptations of peculiar practical value. The manufacture involves a process not yet given out to the public by the discoverer, who states that while experimenting with cottonseed oil to produce a varnish for paintings he obtained a substance entirely foreign in its makeup and properties to what was sought—not a varnish, but rubber. So simple is the process, as alleged, that it is not within the protection of a patent, the only safeguard being, therefore, in the secrecy of the process, by the use of which, it is asserted, only 15 per cent is required of the genuine rubber to produce an article which can in no way be distinguished from the ordinary crude india rubber, it is said, even by experts in the handling of the latter article. Arrangements have been made for its extensive manufacture and its application to the various purposes so long peculiar to the natural material.—New York Sun.

THE LONGEST RAILROAD.

Five Thousand Six Hundred Miles Without Changing Cars.

From the San Francisco Chronicle.

A wealthy Russian who has the contract for building a part of the great Siberian railway, arrived with several of his countrymen on the last Pacific mail steamer, This gentleman is J. J. Galetzski. He and his friends are quartered at the California hotel. The others in the party are Mr. Koraloff, who has been operating Siberian mines, and two ivil engineers named Ivanoff and Allmoff. They are on the way to St. Petersburg.

The Siberian railway, which Mr. Galetzski is now engaged in constructing, is a costly enterprise and when completed it is expected that it will have an important effect on commerce and civilization. It will be the longest line of track ever laid. A person can get on a car and ride more than 5,600 miles without change when it is built. At the inception of the work the supposition was that it would be finished in 1895; when some progress had been made the belief was that the last spike would not be driven until 1897, and now Mr. Galetzski has informed acquaintances here that in 1900 the Trans-Siberian railway may be completed. As the difficulties are greater than anticipated when encountered, it may be that the project will be accomplished at the beginning of the century.

Mr. Galetzski began work on his part of the line two years ago. On the 24th of May, 1891, the czarowitz turned the first sod' laid the first rail, and drove the first spike at Vladivostock. Work was then pushed at both ends of the line. In Russia the railway starts from the station in the Ural mountains where the European line now terminates, and on the railway, by means of a junction, a continuous journey can be made to Moscow and to other European cities. Mr. Malowansky said that about 200 versts of the road had been finished by Mr, Galetzski, 400 more are partially finished, and the surveyors are in advance for 400 additional versts. A versts is a Russian mile, being equivalent to two-thirds of a mile in this country. Ten thousand Chinese and Coreans are employed by the contractors, they being considered as handy for railaoad building in bleak Siberia as in America. The other workmen are convicts and ticket-of-leave men. The price paid per verst by the government is 60,000 rubles, amounting to about $3,000,000 for the section under Mr. Galetzski's charge.

The work is very expensive, as a great deal of blasting of solid rock must be done. Whole mountains of rock have been moved and deep gorges have to be made. Much difficulty was experienced in getting the material to Siberia. A large part of it had to be shipped to the Pacific coast and then up to Vladivostock. Transportation across Siberia under existing conditions is slow and cumbersome. The deep snows in winter impede and stop work. These facts make the magnitude of the Russian government's huge undertaking more impressive than the mere statement of the line's extraordinary length. The steppes are uninviting in appearance, and dangers abound. Tigers and other wild animals have been shot along the line out from Vladivostock. To now reach a city of European Russia takes forty days from Vladivostock, and when the railway is running one can go to St. Petersburg from that Siberian port in twelve days.

The idea of having the railroad was in the mind of the czar twenty years before work was begun. A commission which was appointed by the emperor in 1887 unanimously recommended the project on commercial and strategical grounds. It was foreseen that the cost would be immense, but the Russian government decided to bear it alone, accepting no foreign capital. The benefits that will accrue to Russia are expected to more than repay the expenditure. Among the advantages which the railway will bring about are the colonization of Siberia, which is a vast unpopulated portion of the earth; the development of agriculture and of the Siberian mines; the opening of new markets for Russian industries, and, in short, to make Asiatic Russia a source of revenue instead of constant expense, besides increasing Russian influence in countries bordering on Siberia. By building up Siberia the railway will aid Russian extension in Asia. Part of the trade of Cnina, Japan and Corea will be diverted to Russia.

To transport freight from Shanghai to Vancouver, thence over the Canadian Pacific and across the Atlantic to Europe, takes thirty-five days. Through the Suez canal to Genoa and Marseilles requires forty-three to forty-six days. When the Siberian railway is finished freight can be transported from Shanghai to Europe in eighteen to twenty days, and this saving of time will divert trade to the new line. Russia thus expects to cut into the business that now falls to the United States, Canada, Great Britain, Erance and Germany. Russia had once a great caravan route across the desert, but the increase of facilities for ocean carrying caused it to fall into disuse. One drawback for the Siberian line is that the port of Viadivostock, to which all of its freight must come, is closed by ice during several months of each year.

The estimate by the Russia engineers was that the railway would cost from $30,000, to $67,00 a mile. Some parts are to pass through a country where engineering difficulties are great. The outlay is to be from 350,000,000 to 400,000,000 rubles. The line will run close to the fifty-fifth parallel of north latitude from Zlatausk and Miask as far as the Yenisei river. Branches will there extend for about sixty miles to connect with the important towns of Tomsk and Omsk. The road will then follow a more southerly course to Irkutsk, go along the southern shore of Lake Balkal, and through the valley of the Seeling river, cross the valley of the Lena and the Amur to Lake Collan, where excellent coal has been found; thence run eastward to the steamboat station of Srejetinsk on the Amur river and along that stream southeastward to Khabaroffka. There it will turn southward along the right back of the Ussuri, run to Graffsky, and terminate at Viadivostock, in latitude forty-three degrees.

Some doubters say that this road will be a constant drain on Russia for years after it is built, and that it will not begin to pay for half a century; but even if it brings to no direct financial profits it is certain to be productive of good to to the Russia empire. Although Siberia contains barren and almost useless wastes it has millions of acres of fertile soil, which with easy cultivation will yield immense harvests. One purpose of the government is to relieve the crowded districts of European Russia, so that when the crops fail the famine may not affect as many as it has in the past. Hundreds of thousands of toilers can hardly keep body and soul together in Russia, and if this surplus labor were put on the fertile areas of Western Siberia, that country would be developed. European Russia would be relieved of so much human weight, and the emigrants to Siberia could maintain themselves much more comfortably than now. Thus the interests of the empire would be advanced.

One part of Western Siberia, which is capable of being converted into a garden is as large as France, and its soil is rich enough to support as large a population as that country has. Such districts are badly needed by Russia, for it has been found that in some of its European districts the agricultural population has increased far beyond the ability to secure fresholds. This superfluity of the Russian population has aggravated the sufferings during each famine. The Siberian farms that are awaiting such settlers are inaccessible now, but the railroad will bring them within reach.

The mining regions of the Altai mountains will also be aided by the railway. Mr. Koraloff, who is with Mr. Galetzski, is credited with the belief that gold mines will be developed there which will compare well with those of California, Australia the Transvaal. Steam communication will give an impetus to this district, where enormous quantities of precious metal are supposed to be concealed.

One of the remote regions to which the railway will probably bring population is the valley of the Salenga river; on the southeast shore of Lake Balkal. It is the warmest district in all Siberia, and has been called the Siberian Italy. Its fertility is unsurpassed, yet because of the lack of carrying facilities the ground there is unused.

OATES VS HAWKINS.

ST. LOUIS, November 9.—General Morton L. Hawkins, editor of the St. Louis Chronicle to-day received the following letter from Congressman Oates, of Alabama:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, WASHINGTON, D. C., November 6.—To the editor of the Chronicle, St. Louis, Mo. Sir: I have just read your editorial on me headed "Use for Blood Hounds." It is predicated upon a clause in the bankruptcy bill, of which I have charge, which simply provides like unto a writ of the exiat at the common law, that a bankrupt who undertakes to leave the jurisdiction in which his case is pending when his presence or testimony is shown to be necessary to the proceedings of court, may be arrested and detained but not imprisoned until the testimony is obtained or the judicial proceeding in which he is needed has been passed upon. That is in no wise a harsh provision nor is it imprisonment for debt in any sense. Any man who has ever read the bill and noticed the provision you speak of, and will then read your article, will readily decide that you are either a liar or a fool. If you know what you are writing about, then I tell you you are an infamous liar; if you don't know what you are writing about then I put you down as a cussed fool, and will take no further notice of you. I regard you as a jackass, but still, if you are offended at these remarks come to see me and I will give you satisfaction.

[Signed] WM. C. OATES.

The letter is printed in to-day's Chronicle.

HEAVY FIRE LOSSIES.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—The Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin's monthly compilation of the fire loss says: The fire loss of the United States and Canada during October, as estimated from our daily files, amounts to $11,014,700 This is over $2,000,000 less than the sum chargeable against the same month in 1892, but the year's record so far exhibits an enormous increase over the total for the first ten months of 1892.

For the ten months of this year the total loses aggregate $132,847,400 against $108,341,550 for the same period last year.

TWO BEARS.

The Thrilling Narrative of a Suddenly Interrupted Auction.

From the New York Tribune.

SCRANTON, Pa., October 28.—"Jake, how'll ye trade bears?" asked Hank Reynolds of Jake Ketcham one morning this month. Hank was leaning over Jake's dooryard fence on Catbird creek and Jake's tame bear Pocono was playfully performing on a pole in the yard.

"I'll trade ye my bear fur yourn, Hank," said Jake, "fur three bushels 'taters to boot."

"All right," Hank replied, "fetch your bear over to my place next Sunday and I'll do it."

"No. I can't do that, Hank," said Ketcham, "'cause it's too fur and the goin's bad; but I'll tell ye what I will do, though, Mr. Gardner's goin' to have a vandue next Friday. Bring your bear to his place that day, and I'll take mine up there and we'll trade. But don't forgit the 'taters, Hank."

"That's fair enough, Jake," Reynolds said, "It's a bargain."

Reynolds lives on Shadberry Hill, six miles from Ketcham's, and Burton G. Gardner owns a farm on Goose Pond run, about half way between. Reynolds came down to Gardner's place on Friday of last week with three bushels of potatoes in a buckboard wagon, and his tame bear Toby hitched to the rear. Toby and Pocono were twin brothers, but they hadn't seen one another since Mike Noonan stole them from their mother in Daily's swamp four years ago last spring, when they were small cubs.

When Auctioneer W. H. Evans, mounted a barrel and started to sell a cow, Reynolds led Toby to a corner of the barnyard and let him amuse himself by gnawing a bone. Ketcham soon came up the road with Pocono in tow, and marched him in to the barnyard at the end of a chain. Toby growled at sight of Pocono, Pocono growled back, and the next instant both bears broke away from their owners and clinched. Reynolds and Ketcham yelled and kicked at their pugnacious pets, but the bears were in for a bloody battle, and they speedily got rid of their collars, rolled, tumbled, clawed and bit, plunged through the crowd of bidders, and knocked the barrel from under the auctioneer's feet just as he was asking, "Do I hear no more?"

Auctioneer Evans climbed up a stack of buckwheat straw in a hurry, and the bears tore around the barnyard till the cattle and sheep stampeded to the road and fields. By that time all the bidders had fled, and the auctioneer sang out from his perch on the stack, "How much am I offered for the bears?" Two cents!" somebody yelled back from the road, whereat the auctioneer shouted "Sold!" at the top of his lungs.

Meantime Ketcham and Reynolds club bed and kicked the fighting bears with all their might, but the bears clawed and bit and pummelled one another as though they had always been wild. The fur and blood flew, and the bears tipped over the watering through, upset a wagon, smashed a cutter into kindling wood, broke through the siding of a shed, and rolled into the meadow, where they fought harder than ever. Finally Pocono squealed and turned tail, and the men rushed in with clubs and pitchforks and separated them. Ketcham ran Pocono into a stable, and Reynolds put a rope around Toby's neck and tied him to the buckboard. Both bears were badly used up. Mr. Gardner made Reynolds and Ketcham pay him $5 each for the damage the bears had done to his property.

'Jake, I wouldn't trade now if you'd give me three bushels of 'taters to boot, instead of me givin' 'em to you. Your bear ain't no good," said Reynolds.

"But you have traded," said Jake, "and I'm goin' to let you have Pocono and take Toby and the 'taters."

"Guess not," said Reynolds. "Toby and the 'taters goes hum with me," and he whipped up his nag and started, and Ketcham had to take his bear back to Catbird Creek.

MUST DROP POLITICS.

WASHINGTON, November 9.—Secretary Carlisle to day outlined the position of the administration as to the government employes participating actively in politics, in a letter addressed to Mr. Murphy, collector of internal revenue for the Milwaukee, Wis., district. Mr. Murphy was recently elected chairman of the democratic county committee. He has held his acceptance in abeyance until he could ascertain the views of his superior officers on the subject. By direction of Secretary Carlisle, Commissioner Miller to-day wrote Collector Murphy a letter in which the intimation was conveyed that according to the views of the civil service entertained by the administration, it would be well to leave himself entirely free to devote all of his time to the duties of his office. It is understood here that this outlines the policy that will be acceptable to the administration.

PENNSYLVANIA'S PLURALITY.

PHILADELPHIA, November 9.—Official returns from every county in the state except three of the smaller ones, Armstrong, Bucks and Monroe, and careful estimates added for those three show a plurality of 138,083 for Jackson, republican, for state treasurer. The Allegheny county plurality for Jackson, as shown by the official count to-day is 27,164, which is about 7,000 greater than has been claimed for him in that county since the election.

Farmer Layman Didn't Die on the Schedule Time.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., November 9.—Eccentric Farmer Lyman, who made preparations to die on Tuesday, in obedience to a vision, but lost faith in the revelation a few days since, had another vision on Sunday night which to his mind explains the previous ones more clearly than he has ever understood them before and causes perfect contentment of mind.

The vision informed him that the communications of a year ago were not from evil spirits who had endeavored to deceive him, as he had been recently led to fear, but were presented more as a test to determine whether he was really willing to leave the associations of this earth at present. As his cheerful preparations for death had clearly demonstrated his willingness to leave the earth, the last vision was to convey to him a new lease of life. "Now, I don't want any more visions," said the old man to-day. "This vision business has cost me dearly, but if it was given for a good purpose, all right."

Farmer Layman's vision, it is feared, may have a bad effect on the community in which he lives. There are cases reported of men who claim to have had revelations, and if they act on them the result will be disastrous to their families. In some cases, it is said, the wives of men heretofore industrious are compelled to use all their persuasive powers to induce their husbands to continue their farm work, as the men claim to have assurances that their sojourn on earth is to be short.

"The next time a poor, deluded old man has the nightmare and mistakes it for a vision," said one afflicted woman, "I do hope he will keep it to himself and not start a lot of cranks going. I am glad women are not such dreamers. I would naturally think Layman's humiliating experience would discourage any more dreaming, but it has set the dreamers working. I guess my husband has been shamed out of his wonderful revelation. If he has not he will be before long."

THREE MORE VICTIMS.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Three more names have been added to the list of those killed in last night's Rock Island wreck here, making seven dead and thirty-four injured. The additional dead are:

Edward J. Grady of Quincy, Ill., died at hospital to-day; Malcolm Latham, 12 years old, died to-day; man, name not secured, died at his home in Wentworth avenue to-day.

William Gelskin, a stylishly dressed young man, was arrested to-day, charged with robbing the bodies of the victims of the Rock Island wreck. The prisoner denies his guilt and claims to be a railroad man, but is locked up, awaiting an investigation.

Flagman Ortman of the Rock Island railway who has been charged with causing last night's wreck, was arrested to-day at the request of the coroner. The railway officials refused to give bond for him and he is locked up awaiting the result of the inquest. It is said that Ortman's failure to display the proper light on the rear of the suburban train caused the collision.

PROBABILITY OF TROUBLE.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The probability of the United States having to interfere with an armed force in Brazilian waters to prevent Europe's warships from carrying Mello into power is regarded by naval men as very imminent. There is no doubt in the mind of this government that there is secret foreign interference for the assistance of Mello, but as yet there has been secured no positive evidence of it.

The crisis has been reached, and it is not anticipated that there will be any development liable to involve the United States in the trouble until the fleet of the government in Brazil, which is being fitted out in this country, shall have reached the Brazilian coast. Then, if need be, the government will act vigorously. Protest will be followed by an appeal to arms, if necessary.

If the Triple Alliance keeps its hands off, the United States can do little else but stand on guard and preserve neutrality, but if there is any foreign interference we will not remain passive. Plans are being made in anticipation of the most serious developments.

BELIEVES THE QUEEN WILL BE RESTORED.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8.—J. D. Spreckles when asked his opinion as to the credibility of a telegram from Washington stating that the new United States minister to Hawaii has instructions to restore the queen manifested the most profound ignorance, declaring he had not the least idea of the instructions under which United States Minister Willis was authorized to proceed. He continued: I firmly believe that we shall soon learn of the queen's restoration to the throne, and I am certain that if she is restored there will not be the least disturbance, as her upholders are in the majority and would undoubtedly prevent any civil uprising."

PLACED TIES ON THE TRACK.

LANCASTER, Pa., Nov. 8—Henry S. Eickman, formerly operator at Kinzer's station, recently discharged, was arrested this evening charged with placing obstructions on the track of the Pennsylvania railroad. Several attempts have been made lately to wreck trains at Kinzer's the latest being on Monday night. Eickman on that night reported at the tower that several ties were on the track a short distance away, and when he tried to remove them three men drove him away. The railroad officials do not believe his story and think he placed the ties on the track.

EVANS' CHANCES SLIM.

BARDSTOWN, KY., Nov. 9.—Shortly before ten 11 o'clock this morning the negro Evans was taken from the jail by the soldiers and escorted to the court-house to stand trial for his crime. Most of the day was consumed in securing a jury. There was a large crowd present, and the soldiers sat in the rear of the court room with fixed bayonets, ready at a moment's notice to quiet any disturbance. It is the general opinion here that should the jury return a verdict of not guilty, or fix the punishment at anything but death, there will be trouble. Court adjourned late this afternoon until to-morrow morning after several witnesses had testified. Everything is quiet to-night and no trouble is anticipated. Edna Hall, Evan's victim, is in a very serious condition and the horrible fright she received seems to have unbalanced her mind. At times she is flighty and is possessed by a hallucination that Evans is after her. When this fright comes over her she screams and begs piteously to be saved. Her present condition makes the feeling bitter against Eavns.

FOREIGN MAIL SERVICE.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The annual report of Captain N. M. Brooks, the Superintendent of Foreign Mails, Postoffice Department, shows that the total cost of the service for the last fiscal year was $1,141,959, of which sum $646,030 was paid on account of vessels of American register, and $495,629 to vessels of foreign register.

The estimated amount of postage collected on foreign matter was $3,052,189.

The report asserts that the ocean mail subsidy act of March 3, 1891, has proven a flat failure. The net increased payment to the United States Steamship Companies during the year on account of this act is stated to have been $406,927, and for this sum nothing has been realized. There has not been any increased service either as to frequency of trips or reduced running time in consequence of it.

The Jefferson City Mo. typographical nuion has withdrawn from the state federation of labor because of its indorsement of Atgeld's pardon of the anarchists.

—What a contrast between the appearance of the court house yard this fall and last. It was well worth the little it cost to see it look as it now does.

—Life is short, money is shorter, and butter and eggs are shortest in this place.

has often wasted time and material in trying to obtain a shade of color, and has even resorted to the use of ready mixed paints, the ingredients of which he knew nothing, because of the difficulty in making a shade of color with white lead. This waste can be avoided by the use of National Lead Company's

Pure White Lead Tinting Colors

These tints are a combination of perfectly pure colors, put up in small cans, and prepared so that one pound will tint 25 pounds of Strictly Pure White Lead to the shade shown on the can. By this means you will have the best paint in the world, because made of the best materials—and pure colors. Insist on having one of the brands of white lead that are standard, manufactured by the "Old Dutch" process, and known to be strictly pure:

Strictly Pure White Lead

"Armstrong & McKelvy"
"Beymer-Bauman" "Fahnestock"
"Davis-Chambers"

These brands of Strictly Pure White Lead and National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors are for sale by the most reliable dealers in paints everywhere.

If you are going to paint, it will pay you to send to us for a book containing information that may save you many a dollar; it will only cost you a postal card.

RESTLESSNESS IN INDIA.

CALCUTTA, Nov. 10.—The native population is growing more restive under British rule and foreign residents are becoming alarmed. Close students of the Indian character profess to believe that it would take only a small spark to kindle a fire of revolution that would be far-reaching in its consequences. There recently occurred in the Peshowur, in the Punjab, a series of incendiary fires that resulted in a great loss of military stores. Peshawur is on the Afghan frontier and is an important strategic point, being aside from its military importance, the northeast terminus of the Indian railway system. Rumors are current to the effect that attempts were made at Rawul Pinde, another important point, to set fire to the government stores.

ECKELS IS HOPEFUL.

The Comptroller Looks for Better Times From Now On.

BOSTON, Nov. 12.—James H. Eckels, comptroller of the currency, came to Boston to-day and is stopping at the Parker house. He is to address the bankers of Boston to-morrow evening. To a reporter of the Associated Press he said in conversation this evening concerning the late financial depression and its consequences:

"You can imagine my position when I mention the fact that there are usually from eight to ten failures of national banks a year, while I had assumed by position when they began, one after another, until in four months there were 150. I am glad to say that of this number about ninety have resumed business. The majority of those who will not ought never to have been organized. It was not a panic, there was no sudden spasm of fear. The withdrawal of money on deposit went steadily on for six months, and when I tell you that over $350,000,000 were withdrawn in that time from national banks alone, not including the amounts withdrawn from state and private institutions, you can appreciate what a contraction of the currency there has been. The repeal of the Sherman silver act has had much to do with alleviating the situation. There was a change for the better even when the repeal passed the house. All business men will agree that confidence increased as the prospects of repeal grew brighter. Look at the figures. In July there were seventy-two failures and in August thirty-two. But after the 28th of August there were only two, and they were by orders from the office.

"This was not a 'bankers' panic.' The banks reflect the temper of the people, and when it is considered that of the sum total of the withdrawals nearly $300,000,000 individual deposits, the prevalent stagnation in business is accounted for. The banks were compelled to call in their loans, thus depleting trade resources to the extent of over $300,000,000 and from banks and bankers to the amount of $500,000,000, while to their borrowings was added $37,000,000. At present the country is in the condition of a man who has been sick. He is recovering, but it is slowly. Silver repeal was prolonged so long that it is not recuperating with the rapidity it would otherwise have. I look for a decided advancement about the 1st of January." In regard to the tariff and the depression he called attention to the fact that those industries would be most affected by the tariff which are those reviving most rapidly.

"In New England," he said, "take the Amoskeag mills in Manchester for example, and in Pennsylvania, it is iron and steel industry which is recovering first from the effects of the stagnation in business."

Regarding the recent election he said: "There is always a reaction against an administration when it has been in power a year, and this year is no exception."

MORE FURNACES START UP.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., November 12.—The industrial outlook in this city is bright and the indications are that there will be a continuous run of the various plants through the winter. Fires were lighted at the Rosena furnace yesterday and preparations are being made to start the Rainey furnace this week. The Red Jacket is now in operation and employing a full force of men. At the Red Hill Superintendent Stevenson notified the men that they would have to work an extra "turn" Sunday night, as a large order for nails must be got out at once. The nail and wire mills will be put on extra "turn." The New Castle Tin Plate company is turning out tin plate and employing a full force.

ANOTHER TRAIN ROBBERY.

CAIRO, ILL., Nov. 12.—The Illinois Central passenger train was held up yesterday morning at Mayfield bridge by five masked men. They climbed over the tender and compelled Engineer Clarke to stop the train. The express car was then entered and $32 in cash and a sealed package of money said to contain $7,000 taken.

The story told by the conductor is that five robbers boarded the train when it stopped at Bardwell, two of them climbing on the engine and three boarding the end of the baggage and express cars. They ordered the train to be stopped at once. Fireman Butler, colored, became frightened and jumped from the train as it slowed up. One of the robbers fired at Engineer Richard Clarke, but shot wide of the mark. Conductor Charles Shearin and the express messenger, E. B. McNeil, made a valiant resistance, but could accomplish nothing in the face of the loaded guns. Conductor Shearin fired once at the robbers, but hit nobody. As soon as the train stopped the robbers entered the express car at the point of their pistols. The company has offered a reward of $1,500 for the arrest and conviction of the robbers.

A boy stood on the burning deck.
Unwisely, too, 'tis said,
For, with the fast approaching flame,
His elders quickly fled.
So, many now in peril stand,
Unmindful of their fate,
Till, step by step, Grim Death comes on
And then, alas! too late!
Far wiser, surely, would it seem,
When his approach we see,
With "Pierce's Pellets" well in hand
To vanished old "G. D."

Pierce's Pleasant Pellets have remarkable power to correct all physicial derangements, thus warding off disease that would surely follow. Purely vegetable, pleasant to take, perfectly harmless! With a little forethought, they'll be a present help in time of need—cheating the doctor and robbing the grave! As a Liver Pill, they are unequaled. Smallest cheapest, easiest to take. One dose as a laxative, three or four as a cathartic. Tiny sugar;coated granules, in vials; 25 cents.

DASTARDLY REVENGE.

A Kentucky Mob Blows Up Phil Evans' House and His Family Is Missing.

LOUISVILLE, KY., Nov. 12.—A special from Bardstown, Ky., to-night to the Associated Press says: Phil Evans' home was burned to the ground and his family either perished therein or were run away by an infuriated crowd. Who committed the act is unknown. All that remains to tell the tale was a part of a chimney and a few burned logs where the house stood. Ed Hall's house, the father of Evans' victim, which is only a short distance from where Evans' house stood, is being guarded through fear that the negroes would attack him and his helpless children. All is excitement and there is no telling what may yet occur. Your correspondent learned the following from a neighbor;

Last night two loud blasts, sounding like an explosion of dynamite was heard by him, followed by about forty shots in rapid succession, and the people there are at a loss to know who amongst them could perpetrate such a deed.

None of Evans' family, which consisted of his old mother, wife and little girl, can be found or heard of anywhere. Several theories are advanced as follows: Either angered mob was there last night and blew up their home with dynamite, killing all within or drove them off and then destroyed the house. The authorities will make a thorough investigation to-morrow when it is hoped the truth will be ascertained. In the meantime every road and every house in the quiet little place of Samuel's depot is being guarded to-night by men armed with shotguns, who fear the negroes may rise up against them, thinking they had helped in the trouble. Phil Evans now lies confined in jail, not knowing the fate of his old mother who has stuck to him through all his trouble. The excitement has spread to this city and is the sole topic of conversation on the streets and at the hotels.

THE BEST KNOWN.

That which is the most widely known, is sure to give the greatest satisfaction. When we are sick and in need of a physician, we send for the one who is known to be the most skilful in his profession. It is only recently that people all over the land had the opportunity of obtaining the best medical consultation and advice without charge.

Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th Street, New York, is without question the best known and most skilful physician in curing nervous and chronic diseases. He is the discoverer of the wonderful cure, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and has lately adopted the plan of treating the sick from far and near by means of letter correspondence. His success is simply wonderful. People can consult him by letter, free of charge.

He gives most careful and explicit attention to all letters, answering all questions and thoroughly explaining your disease so that you know just what is the matter with you. For this, there is no charge whatever. The doctor uses only harmless vegetable remedies and has the greatest success in curing disease through letter correspondence. Send for his symptom blank, and he will write you a full description of your disease and give you advice and directions how to cure it, free of charge.

"In times of peace prepare for war." So also in these dull times young men should prepare for the revival of business. DUFF'S COLLEGE, of Pittsburgh, has fitted thousands of young men for a life of usefulness by giving to them a thorough practicial business education. The institution is the foremost of its kind in the country. If any of our readers are interested they should address W. H. Duff, the President for circulars.

SIGNS OF A MILD WINTER.

Evidence Brought Forward By a Weather Prophet.

"I notice that some wise men in various parts of the country are predicting an uncommonly severe winter," said the old Lackawanna Valley weather prophet at Scranton, on Thursday, "but they are all wrong. All the signs point to a mild and open winter. When you see caterpillars crawling on the ground all through October, as they did last month, you may set it down as a fact that the temperature will be unseasonably high throughout the winter. Caterpillars don't crawl up to election time when a cold winter is ahead.

"Robins were thick in the sumachs and laurels on the hillsides on All Saints' day, and that is a sure sign that there will be no real cold weather till the second or third month next year. On November 2 I picked a basketful of dandeloin and crow's foot blossoms on the highest hill in Lackawanna county. I never saw the like of it before, although I have searched for such indications of a mild winter at about that time in the year every fall since 1837. I also ran across some boneset and ferns that hadn't been touched by frost, and that is another good sign of a mild winter.

"In a piece of beech woods I knocked a chipmunk over with a stone on the afternoon before Hallowe'n, and found that it hadn't a single beechnut in its chops, although the nuts were plentiful. That is a sure sign of warm weather up to the holidays. On October 28 I saw a woodchuck sitting on a stone wall. That is one of the best open winter signs, as woodchucks hole up three weeks before that time when the winter is going to be severe.

"Toads are still hopping on the dead leaves in moist places, and meadow moles are rooting up little mounds of dirt in rich soil, unfailable indications of warm weather for weeks and a green Christmas. The toads sang sixteen days later than usual, another good sign of a mild winter. The fur of skunks and coons is thinner by half than it was a year ago, and that is another reason why I predict a very light snowfall before groundhog day. Rabbits are lean to what they were last year, although food is abundant, a sure sign of mild winter weather. All in all, I have never seen in sixty years so many favorable indications of an open winter, and therefore I predict that the sales of fuel, sleighs and cutters will be small to what they were a year ago."

IMPROVEMENTS AT HOMESTEAD.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., November 12.—Work has begun on some extensive improvements at the Homestead Steel works. In open hearth mill No. 2, two new furnaces much larger than any now in use, will be built. With them will be constructed a big pit for casting nickel steel ignots. The melt of three furnaces is now required to make one ignot used for armor plate, but the two new furnaces will produce all the metal needed. The "hot metal route" from the Edgar Thompson Steel works to the Homestead mill may be abandoned. It has been in operation for several weeks but the condition of the metal is not entirely satisfactory.

"Bad Spells" with the Heart

Dizzy, Faint, in Despair

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cured.

"I have suffered very much during the past few years from

Heart Trouble

Physicians said I might live a number of years, might die any day. I could usually tell when the worst attacks were coming off by feeling a sharp pain in the heart, then violent thumping, shortness of breath, followed by a coldness coming all over me, then DIZZINESS, FAINTNESS, and then, unless I could lie down at once I would fall wherever I was. I never dared to be left alone for I had to have help at once and that applied with vigor. I could not do any work, even to sweeping, and had to be careful of the least excitement. I got very much discouraged at the outlook and thought

There Was No Hope

Of ever finding anything to help me. One day a friend asked, 'Why don't you try Hood's Sarsaparilla? I thought it over and decided to try it, and I thank God for it too. Since I began taking it, three years ago, I have had but one 'bad spell' and that was due to carelessness on my part, and from that I quickly recovered. I cannot tell you how much better I feel and how thankful I am. I feel as if I would like to tell every person in the world about it. I can and do now do all my housework, even to washing." MRS. SARAH TREXLER, 809 Latimer Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

A PRETTY STORY.

And Told, Too, in a Most Entertaining Manner.

AN INTERESTING BIT OF HISTORY OF A LOVELY FAMILY.

The Strongest Lights and Shadows of Our Home Life.

Mrs. Pauline N. Blakewell, of 740 Jefferson Avenue, Detroit, Mich., says: "Three years ago I found myself bordering on nervous prostration. I could neither eat nor sleep. I was under the care and treatment of eminent physicians, but all to no avail.

"Happening to have my attention called to the wonderful restorative effects of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, I decide to give it a trial. By the time the first bottle was gone I felt better and was satisfied that it was doing me good. When I had completed the third bottle I felt entirely cured. My appetite was now good and I could lie down and sleep soundly, something I had not been able to do in years. I can conscientiously recommend the use of this great strengthening medicine to all similarly afflicted as myself.

"A year ago my little daughter was taken suddenly and seriously ill with what physicians pronounced spinal meningitis. After their remedies had failed to cure her, I commenced giving her Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and in less than two week from the time of taking the first dose she was on her feet running around and in a little while was as well as ever. I have never used any medicine with such marked success as I have found in Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy."

MRS BLAKEWELL'S LITTLE CHILD.

Everybody says the same thing, and from the unanimity of opinion of the doctors and the people, we are assured that this great and widely known remedy is just what our sick and suffering citizens require to restore them to health. All the doctors say that it does cure, and all sufferers from nervousness, weakness, poor blood, debility, stomach, kidney or liver troubles should give it an immediate trial. It is purely vegetable and harmless. Take it yourself and give it to your children. It will cure.

It is indorsed by physicians because it is the discovery and prescription of the famous Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th Street, New York, the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. The Doctor can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

THE COLUMBIAN ALBUM.

Magnificent Souvenir of the World's Fair Placed Within the Reach of All.

The Pittsburg Times, which has a reputation for enterprise and liberality which is equaled only by its excellence as a newspaper, caps the climax with an announcement which is certain to be universally commended. It proposes to distribute among its readers, and all who will become readers of The Pittsburg Times, the "Columbian Album," a splendid collection of photographic views of buildings and points of interest about the grounds of the World's Columbian Exposition. There will be ten parts, each containing 16 large photographs reproduced on fine paper and accompanied by clear descriptions. The whole will form a magnificent and enduring souvenir of the Great Fair, which is at once the pride and wonder of the country. Beginning next Monday, November 13th, THE TIMES will print in each issue a coupon. Upon receipt of six of these coupons from different issues of the paper, and five two cent postage stamps or their equivalent in cash, THE TIMES will send to any address one part of the "Columbian Album." All the parts can be obtained in the same way, so that at the end of ten weeks everybody who reads THE TIMES can have the complete Album. The work will give its possessors who were unable to go to Chicago almost as much pleasure as a trip to the Fair, and to those who did walk up and down the streets of the White City, it will be an invaluable souvenir. Look out for The Pittsburg Times next Monday and every succeeding day. It will give you all the news for one cent a day, and will also give you an opportunity to obtain the "Columbian Album." If there is no agent for THE TIMES in your locality, you can build up a profitable business by writing to THE TIMES and securing the agency at once. Nov 10—2 t.

A PROMINENT DOCTOR DEAD.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., November 12.—Dr. A. P. Mylert, aged 61 years, died here last night of heart failure. He was born in La Porte, Sullivan county. He was educated at the University of Lewisburg. Afterward he entered the College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York where he graduated. Soon after the breaking out of the civil war he was appointed medical director of the army of Ohio under General Sherman, on whose staff he was during all his campaigns. During the close of the war he resumed his practice in New York city, and was the author of several pamphlets on medicine and surgery. During his many years in New York he devoted his Sunday hours in attending Mr. Beecher's church and was a prominent teacher in one of the classes. In the past years he was a resident of California, and had come here to visit his brother-in-law, Dr. Urquhart, at whose residence he was taken ill ten weeks ago.

NOVEMBER DAYS.

November is a month of rainy, disagreeable days. The damp cold air penetrates everywhere and chills the blood, laying the system open to the danger of colds, pneumonia and kindred complaints. There is but one remedy that stimulates the system and fortifies it against such attacks, and that is whiskey. Not such a whiskey as is generally palmed off on the public, but a whiskey of known purity and quality. Such a whiskey is Klein's Silver Age, Duquesne or Bear Creek Rye. These whiskies have been before the public for many years and find favor wherever purity is required. Physicians prescribe them; hospitals use them, and every reputable dealer sells them.

These goods are for sale by S. Shloss, Williamsport, at regular prices.

Going to Buy a Watch?

If so, buy one that cannot be stolen. The only thief-proof Watches are those with Non-pull-out BOWS.

Here's the Idea:
The bow has a groove on each end. A collar runs down inside the pendent (stem) and fits into the grooves, firmly locking the bow to the pendent, so that it cannot be pulled or twisted off.

To be sure of getting a Non-pull-out, see that the case is stamped with this trade mark. It cannot be had with any other kind.

CASH IS LOW.

Something Must be Done to Relieve the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The low tide in the treasury cash and the question of providing relief is likely to be seriously discussed at the meeting of the cabinet to-day. The three methods of dealing with the difficulty, which have thus far been suggested, are the issue of bonds, the negotiation of a temporary loan and the coinage of the seigniorage silver bullion. Secretary Carlisle does not wish to issue bonds before the meeting of the regular session of congress, if it can be avoided. He was not prepared yesterday to commit himself to any definite policy and has not yet taken the final steps for the coinageof the seigniorage. He has never proposed to proceed without authority of congress to coin the seigniorage fund as a separate fund, while leaving the remaining bullion uncoined, and he does not desire a mandatory act compelling him to do this. He is willing, however, to have permission given by law to coin the bullion, as his discretion suggests, to cover seigniorage from time to time into the treasury, and to issue silver certificates against it.

The question of a temporary loan by banks or individuals to the treasury department was reported yesterday to have been discussed between Mr. Carlisle and the New York bankers during his recent visit to the city, but it is denied at the department that this was one of the objects of the visit or that the matter was seriously considered.

There appears to be no direct authority of law for a loan without the issue of bonds, but the secretary may decide that he is justified in pledging the credit of the United States for a small sum and to trust to the good faith of congress to make provision for payment. The whole question was still unsettled at the close of business yesterday.

Among those who called on Secretary Carlisle were a number of the Democratic members of the ways and means committee, who talked with him about the tariff bill and particularly the probable receipts and expenditures. It is understood that Secretary Carlisle assured them that the changed conditions since the passage of the silver repeal law affected the estimates of receipts and expenditures so that he had no such anticipation of a deficit as before that action was taken.

FATAL CARELESSNESS.

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 9.—Southbound passenger train No. 30 crashed into northbound freight No. 57 on the Hocking Valley railroad, one and one-half miles north of Rising Sun, at about 7 o'clock this morning. The collision was due to the disobedience of orders on the part of the engineer of the freight. A heavy fog prevailed at the time and obscured the vision of the passenger engineer. Four were killed outright—L. H. Jones, engineer of the passenger; James E. Kerlin, engineer of the freight:———Jones, fireman of the passenger; Express Messenger James E. Briseh.

A wreckiug train was dispatched immediately upon receipt of the information at headquarters. Rising Sun is a small station about twenty-five miles south of Toledo.

MARRIED TOO MUCH.

UNIONTOWN, Nov. 10.—After a long career of marriage and desertion, a man named John Hurley, aged 46 years, was lodged in jail here to-day charged with bigamy. He was arrested at Coal Centre, Washington County, where he was living with wife No. 3, whom he married about a year ago. Hurley comes from Nova Scotia, where he married a girl when he was 21 years of age. After living with her until they had five children, he deserted her. He came to Johnstown and married a girl named Brown, with whom he lived two years and had one child. He deserted his family, came to Uniontown and married a sixteen year old girl named Ella Pringle, and moved to Coal Centre, where he has been working in the mines. Through letters received from wife No. 1, Mary Pringle, mother, of wife No. 3 learned of Hurley's career and had him arrested.

IN SELF-DEFENCE you ought to keep your flesh up. Disease will follow, if you let it get below a healthy standard. No matter how this comes, what you need is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That is the greatest flesh-builder known to medical science far surpassing filthy Cod liver oil and all its nasty compounds. It's suited to the most delicate stomach. It makes the morbidly thin, plump and rosy, with health and strength. The "Discovery" is sold on trial. In every thing that's claimed for it, as a strength-restorer, blood-cleanser, and flesh-maker, if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

The key to the situation —if you suffer from Catarrh, you'll find in Dr. Sage's Remedy. No matter how bad your case may be, the proprietors of the medicine promise to pay $500 if they can't cure you. You're cured, or you're paid.

SAVED BY PLUCK.

A Cleveland Man Turns the Tables on a Murderous Thief.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 10.—A daring attempt made to rob the Society for Savings this morning nearly resulted in the murder of Col. Myron T. Herrick, the treasurer of the institution. About noon a stranger entered the office and asked for a private interview. Col. Herrick led him into the trustees' room, the stranger closed the door behind them. The man was of medium height and build, with a sandy mustache. He was rather poorly dressed, and wore a slouch hat. Without preliminary remarks the man said:

"I want some money and I want you to give it to me. Now you can go into the vault and give me $50,000. I'll go with you and the clerks in the banking-house will think you are showing me the vaults."

The stranger quickly drew a revolver from his pocket and thrust the muzzle against Col. Herrick's head. "If you don't do that," he continued, "I'll blow you to——. I have a charge of dynamite in my other hand and I'll blow us both up."

Col. Herrick promptly struck the man in the face and knocked him down. The robber sprang to his feet, shot at Col. Herrick and sprang out an open window into the street. The ball passed through the right side of Col. Herrick's coat. The robber has been found.

With health and beauty laden,
A rich and priceless thing,
To woman, pale and wasted,
My precious gift I bring.

Such the object and such the mission of woman's valued friend, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Don't let unreasonable prejudice prevent you from sharing the health and beauty proffered, in good faith, by this most excellent Remedy! None of the most countless weakness and diseases peculiar to women, but that radily yield to its magical power! Manufactured, recommended, sold through druggists, and guaranteed, by the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., to give satisfaction, in every case, or money paid for it cheerfully refunded.

TUESDAY'S LANDSLIDE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Ex-Senator Thomas C. Platt to-day, in speaking of the elections, said;

"Were I asked who were responsible for Tuesday's landslide, I should say the people, and God Almighty was the boss. When Providence is with us all the Hills, Murphy's, Sheehans, McLaughlins, Crokers and McKanes in creation cannot defeat us. Never during my experience in politics have I known of such brazen debauchery of the ballots as in the districts controlled by the Democratic state and Tammany Hall machines. In Albany, where Hill has made his home, the elections were a farce. So too, in Chemung, where he formerly lived. In Buffalo, where Sheehan was supposed to be in control, it seemed to have been worth a man's life to go to the polls and vote other than the ticket dictated by the once blue-eyed, but now black-eyed leader.'

SHOT BY HIGHWAY.

MACUNGLE, Pa., November 10.—Abraham Bartlett, a tinkerer living at Trappe, Montgomery county, was attacked on the highway last night near Collegeville by three men, who demanded his money Bartlett refused to give up his purse and was shot twice. One of the bullets penetrated his body near the heart and the other entered his lungs. His injuries are of a fatal character. A posse was organized this morning and has been searching in every direction for his assailants.

LIKE A GOOD CONUNDRUM is life, because everybody must give it up! But you needn't be in a hurry about it! Life is worth the living! To prolong it, is worth your untiring effort! Don't give up without calling to your rescue that grand old family medicine, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Many a wornout, exhausted body has it made over good as new! It strengthens, builds up, invigorates, assisting nature, and not violating it. Cures liver disease, indigestion, and all blood taints and humors. Sure and lasting benefit guaranteed, or money refunded. All druggists.

RIDDLED WITH BULLETS.

FORT WHITE, Fla., Nov. 9.—Henry Bogue, one of the negroes who admitted taking a part in the brutal murder of W. J. Duncan, of Lake City Junction two days ago, was taken from the Sheriff's posse last night at the doors of the town jail and carried off a quarter of a mile and riddled with bullets. The Sheriff is trying to keep the others hidden. The town is full of angry citizens and more lynching may ollow.

Cease to suffer! Your nervousness, headache, heart-burn and general disorder is the result of the excessive use of Tobacco, Opium or Drink, Hill's Chloride of Gold Tablets, sold by all leading druggists, will put an end to your troubles and make a new man of you.

—Mr. William R. Jenkins has invented a steel garden rake manufacturing machine, which will have a capacity of nine thousand rakes per day. Mr. J. Fearon Mann has associated himself with Mr. Jenkins and it is likely that an establishment may be started in this place for the manufacture of rakes.

SMALLPOX EPIDEMIC.

The State Board of Health Send Warning to Everybody.

The State Board of Health has issued a proclamation declaring smallpox epidemic in Reading and calling upon each borough or city to obey the law and establish a board of health immediately if they have not already done so. Accompanying the proclamation are a set of regulations to be observed in order to ward off the epidemic if it has not already secured a foothold, and to prevent a spread of the malad in case it already exists.

Included in these regulations are injunctions to those persons who have not been successfully vaccinated within the past seven years to have this important matter attended to at once; allowing no pupil to attend school who has not been vaccinated within the prescribed period; requiring a school teacher, physician or householder to report to the Board of Health immediately upon the discovery of a case of small pox or varioloid; requiring the burning of infected school books, garments, etc., of a person taking the disease; the thorough cleaning and whitewashing of cellars, and the cleaning and liming of yards, and outhouses and the placing of a flag or placard on the house containing a case or suspected case. No physician will be liable to a suit for damages in case he reports, in good faith, a suspected case which does not turn out to be smallpox.

In case of a death from the disease there shall be no public or church funeral, and the body shall not be exposed to view, but wrapped in a sheet thoroughly disinfected and buried privately within twenty four hours. Six weeks is the time generally elapsing from the beginning of the disease to the period when all danger of contagion is passed, and any unnecessary visits to the house thus quarantined inside the above period will not be allowed. When a patient recovers he or she will not be allowed to return to work unless they first secure a certificate from the attending physician setting forth that the person for whom it was made out is fully recovered. Any person violating any of these regulations is liable to a fine of $100.

DIED ON TUESDAY.

We are pained to record the death, on Tuesday afternoon, of a little child aged 8 years, a niece of Mrs. C. M. Bower, which occurred about 4 o'clock. The child came here some time ago on a visit and, unfortunately, was stricken with diphtheria. Everything that it was possibly to do, was done by Mrs. Bower with a mother's kindness and solicitude, but all without avail. The little girl thus lingered between life and death for a number of days until finally the death angel relieved the imprisoned spirit and the little soul was wafted on angels wings to that home where there is no such sad and sorrowful partings. The funeral took place at nine o'clock this morning.

In this connection we desire to say that Mr. and Mrs. Bower have taken every precaution to prevent any spread of the disease from their house. Mr. Bower and his son have been guests at the Brockerhoff House during all of the child's illness, and no one who watched in the sick room went away from the house.

THE HUNTING IS GOOD.

Two weeks ago Monday Messrs. A. A. Dale, Percy Blackford, Henry Musser, Simeon Haupt and the McMurtrie boys went to the Green Woods for a good hunt. On Monday Mr. Dale returned and reported hunting in that locality better than he ever knew it to be, but the game was a little scarce, which was the only drawback. In the two weeks they were out the crowd, as a whole, shot one pheasant. Not a big amount of game, but they were thankful it wasn't less.

NEW LAW FIRMS.

The death of ex-Judge Orvis left a vacancy, in the law firm of Orvis, Bower & Orvis that it would be impossible to fill. But, notwithstanding the great loss, the firm has been reorganized, and is now composed of C. M. Bower, Ellis L. Orvis and J. C. Meyer, the latter gentleman having associated himself with the firm on Tuesday. The firm name, however, will remain the same, Orvis, Bower & Orvis. The new firm, as now made up, is composed of all good and able lawyers, some of the brightest legal talent at the Centre county bar, and we predict for them as great success and as much fame in the future as the old firm had in the past.

Also, on Tuesday E. R. Chambers, and James Alexander, Esqs., entered into a copartnership in the law business. These two young men are also well known practitioners in Centre county legal affairs, and there is no question but that the firm of Chambers & Alexander will obtain its fair share of patronage and win numberless laurels, as both gentlemen are lawyers of abitity. Success to you gentleman.

RELATIVES IN CENTRE COUNTY.

From the Lewistown Gazette of November 9, the following is learned:

"Some concern is felt in Armagh township concerning the whereabouts of Miss Martha Cummings, daughter of the late Robert Cummings. About a month ago she went to the World's fair at Chicago, and word was received from her almost daily up to about two weeks ago, since which time nothing has been received from her. Her friends fear some calamity has happened to her and have left to seek for her. Any information in regard to her will be gladly received at the Milroy postoffice. She is a great worker in the Christian Endeavor Society."

Miss Cummings is closely related to the Ross families at Oak Hall and those of the same name in other parts of Centre county. It is hoped the young lady will return safely and healthy.

353 OFFICIALS ELECTED.

There were elected in Pennsylvania last Tuesday one Justice of the Supreme Court ten common pleas judges, nine associate judges, forty two prothonotaries, fifty registers, forty-seven recorders, forty five clerks of quarter sessions court, forty-four clerks of oyer and terminer court, forty five clerks of orphans' court, twenty-seven sheriffs and thirty-three coroners.

The gobbler, if he knows the fate that awaits him, will speedily seek refuge in flight; but poor fellow, having no premonition of what is to come, feeds and fattens, unconsciously preparing himself for a more welcome reception at the table of the thankful hearted, and for that matter for the unthankful as well.

—There ought to be a cabinet of all the natural minerals of the county, as well as specimens of products of same, kept on exhibition in the county building. The Board of Trade would be the proper custodian of the same, in fact, should make the collection.

—According to Monday's Philadelphia Times our editorial brother, Hon. P. Gray Meek, of the Watchman, is booked for the appointment of State Surveyor of the Port of Philadelphia. We are glad to know of Mr. Meek's good luck and trust he will be able to knock the persimmons.

—The Mountain House, at Snow Shoe, has changed hands, Mrs. E. A. Nolan retiring and Mr. E. J. Swavely becoming the proprietor. The retiring Hostess goes out with a consciousness of having conducted one of the best hotels in Centre county, and the prospects are that Mr. Swavely will continue the management in just as popular a manner.

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

JONES, OF OJIBWAY.

He Made a Pile of Profit Out of a Lot of Wolves That Had Treed Him.

From Saxby's Magazine.

"I remember a little brush I had with wolves in Northern Wisconsin before the war," said a man of the name of Jones. "The wolves there were of the large timber variety, and, it being a hard winter, they were constantly hungry. They were fierce and dangerous, and would attack a man even when there were no more than two or three of them together.

"One day in January I was going from Ojibway City to Pomme de Terre river on foot, accompanied only by my dog. Bones was not a dog that would ever go about the country asking folks in his poor, dumb way where he could find a large pack of wolves. When about fifteen miles from Pomme de Terre I noticed that Bones was becoming uneasy. Five minutes later I observed that he was wearing the hair on his head pompadour. I suspected wolves, and I was right. They soon came up, not fifty yards behind. There was at least 100 of them—large, gaunt, hungry, savage wolves. Their fierce howls reverberated through the startled forests like the diabolical shrieks of frenzied demons n torment. I saw that a hand-to-hand contest with them was out of the question. Flight was my only hope. Picking up Bones by the nape of the neck, I tucked him under my arm and started.

"For forty minutes, gentlemen, I ran like a cat in a dog show. I suppose I covered ten miles, notwithstanding that the snow was deep in some places and in others the underbrush interfered. The wolves kept close behind. When I turned my head I could feel their hot, venomous breath on my cheek. They leaped up and nipped at the tail of poor Bones, which was waving and tossing behind on the terrific wind which my flight engendered like a plume of a knight of old going into battle. Their howl, weird and hideous as the sinking wail of 10,000 lost souls, shook the pine needles from the trees and tore the nerves of the unfortunate Bones in a way which was painful to see.

"At the end of ten miles I began to tire. A large spruce tree stood in my path and I climbed it. Perching myself on a lower limb some fifty feet from the ground and tying Bones in place on another with a bit of string, I looked down on the angry, surging sea of wolves below. I felt safe and lit my pipe and gave my dog a ham bone which I had in my pocket. But soon, to my surprise, the wolves began most extraordinary tactics—nothing less, gentlemen, than gnawing down the tree. One hundred sets of ravenous fangs tore and bit the trunk. I saw that the tree could not stand half an hour. I knocked the ashes out of my pipe and began to look at the situation seriously. I noticed on the branches about me chunks of raw spruce gum about the size of my fist. Taking my knife I pried one off and dropped it to a wolf below. He snapped his jaws upon it with famished greed. He never opened them again, the resinous mass holding them firm as a vice.

"At the end of twenty minutes I had the jaws of every wolf welded together past all hope of opening. I then descended with Bones, who now barked savagely and attacked the wolves with great spirit. With his assistance I drove the baffled, helpless creatures to Pomme de Terre like a flock of sheep. There was at that time $10 bounty on wolves. We rounded them up in the court house yard, and I drew $1,000 from the county treasurer, after which I repaired to the Le Grand Monarque hotel and ordered supper not forgetting to bespeak the largest soup bone in town for my dog. I returned to Ojibway city the next day, but saw no wolves."

AND SUCH IS FAME.

"I was out in Milwaukee tho other day," said a business man, "and after I had done what I went there to do, I looked up a friend and he took me out to show me the town. We walked around on all the principal streets, and he pointed out to me the big buildings and all that sort of thing. Finally we reached a down-town corner and my friend took up his staud there.

"I didn't know what he was up to but I dutifully stood beside him and we talked of all sorts of things for half an hour or so. Just as I was beginning to get very tired he nudged me and pointed out a very ordinary looking man who was walking slowly toward us.

"That's him!" he said, in great excitement.

"I expected to see the president or somebody equally great and I looked in the direction indicated. I saw nobody but the ordinary looking man before indicated.

"I knew if we stood here long enough we'd see him continued my friend. 'That's him, sure enough.'

"'That's who?' I asked.

"'Why,' he answered, 'that's Charles H. Harris.'

"'And who, in blazes, is Charles H. Harris?'

"I shall never forget the look of utter contempt that my friend cast on me. He drew himself up to his full height and answered in a tone that made me feel very small indeed: 'Why, he's the man who wrote "After the Ball."'

A LONG CHASE.

From the Boston Herald.

There were two wanderers from the land of the harp and the shamrock, and chance led them into this part of Massachusetts. They were on foot. One of them could not read at all; the other could read only sufficiently well to be proud of airing his accomplishments before his companion. Their journeyings had brought them into the neighborhood of Manchester-by-the-Sea.

Presently they encountered a sign post. Mike stopped to read it and Pat stopped to hear him.

Now the sign was very simple, and it said, "Manchester. Seven Miles." but it seemed to bother Mike, and he looked puzzled.

"What does it say?" he demanded.

"Mon-chased-her," returned Mike slowly.

"Mon chased her seven moiles."

Pat picked up his bundle in disgust.

"Sure," he remarked, "if he wanted her that bad, Oi hope to hivin he got her."

THE GREATEST PRIMA DONNA.

From the Buffalo Express.

"I was in one of the large villages in the central part of the state the other night," said the commercial traveler, "and I was forced to stay there until morning. I heard that there was a show in town and I went up to the Grand Opera House—did you ever notice that every village has a Grand Opera house?—and bought a ticket. I was greatly edified.

"The play looked to be a farce-comedy fro its name, but when the first act had been on for twenty minutes I found that it was one of the gorlest melodramas you can imagine. It was full of shooting and murders and throwing people over cliffs and all that sort of thing, and the company acted so atrociously that it was entertaining to a high degree.

"Blood ran in rivers all over the stage until the last act. Then the heroine, who had a dozen narrow escapes and who had gone through all sorts of difficulties, but who had all this time kept up her musical studies, made her debut a La Scala. There were two sets for that act. One represented the stage of La Scala and the other the green-room. There was a big painted audience on the back drop and the heroine came out and pretended to sing. Then the supes who were in front of the painted audience applauded enthusiastically and great bunches of flowers were thrown at the debutante. The set was changed and the heroine was seen coming into the green room with her arms full of flowers. The man who was playing the stage manager stepped forward, shook her hand effusively and said: 'Madame, my dear madame, let me congratulate you. You have taken Milan by storm. You have sung like a nightingale. You are, without doubt, the greatest prima donna of the age.'

"And then the 'greatest prima donna of the age' dumped her flowers on a chair, tripped down to the footlights and sang that classic ballad, "Do, Do, My Huckleberry, Do," and the curtain descended amid great applause."

A NEEDLE'S RAPID JOURNNY.

The record for the rapid travel of a needle through human flesh was broken in a case which yesterday came under the notice of the surgeons at Hahnemann hospital. A large needle, which on Thursday became imbeded in the back of the left thigh of Mary A. Walsh, a domestic in the employ of Mrs. Mary K. Bardsley No. 1618 Arch street, had worked itself through five inches of fleshy tissue by yesterday afternoon.

The woman was sewing on Thursday and it was on that morning the needle in some strange way must have penetrated the back of the thigh. She felt some slight pain, but was not seriously inconvenienced by it. Day after day the pain seemed to shift a trifle, but she did not pay particular attention to it until yesterday, when it became so severe that in the afternoon she went to the Hahnemann hospital, where she complained of a sharp pain in the fore part of the thigh. Dr. Waaser made an examination and found the point of the needle above the surface. He made a small incision and laid bare enough of the needle to admit of its being seized with a pair of tweezers and pulled it out.

The needle was black as ink, having been oxidized by the action of the blood. The patient recognized it, by the peculiar way in which it was bent, as the needle with which she had been sewing on Thursday morning. It had traveled five inches in a little over three days, which, according to the Hahnemann surgeous, beats all previous sprinting records among needles.

I suffered for more than ten years with that dreadful disease, catarrh, and used every available medicine that was recommended to me. I cannot thank you enough for the relief which Ely's Cream Balm has afforded me.—Emanuel Meyers, Winfield, L. I., N. Y.

GOLDEN DUCATS M

Shining Millions Transferred and Secrets Jealously Guarded.

The United States Express Company has the contract to bring the gold to the mint and carry it back to the sub-treasury the double eagles recoined into eagles and half eagles. The road over which the shipments are being made is not even known, for in these piping days of cranks secrecy is more than ever necessary.

During the past few years the number of $20 gold pieces in the sub-treasury has been materially increased. An examination of them some time ago showed that 500,000 of the precious double eagles had lost something in weight by usage. It was then determined to ship the lot to the mint, there to be melted and coined into $5 and $10 pieces. The first $3.000,000 was carried by the express company's wagons from the sub-treasury to an express car at Jersey City on Thursday last. The utmost precautions of weighing, packing and recording the conditions of the coins were looked after and the transfer was accomplished without any mishaps. Then, astride the boxes of precious freight, Special Agents J. H. Pryor and William Payne came on with the gold.

Through any error, mistake or treachery, a "crank," an experienced western road agent, or any person with evil designs, might have tried to blow up the car and endeavored to run away with at least a portion of the precious frieght. But, happily, the secret had been kept and no attempt was made to wreck the car. In due time it was finally coupled to a Pullman car, followed the engine, which was to draw the train to Philadelphia. It was a vestibuled train, and once it was completed and the journey begun it was impossible for anyone to board it except at the stations where regular stops had to be made.

In the Pullman car at the head of the train were two men armed with Winchester rifles and revolvers. There were no other occupants. The doors at each end were securely locked and the guards merely had to keep a sharp watch for any accident. But scattered here and there through the train were men with paper boxes, each about 3 feet long, 5 inches deep and about 2 inches wide. The men attracted no attention and they sank into their seats with the utmost unconcern. In each box though, was a deadly weapon, a short-barreled repeating Winchester, fully loaded. Had the train been held up or had any adventurous road agents attempted an attack the paper boxes would have emitted 38-caliber balls.

The city was safely reached and the coin was loaded on the express company's wagons, and after a delay of only eleven minutes the golden-laden boxes were whirling towards the mint. There they were examined and a receipt for their safe delivery was given to the agents.

On Thursday $3,000,000 more were shipped and safely delivered. To-day the last installment, $4,000,000, will be brought over.

Altogether $20,000,000 in gold will be brought over from New York under Secretary Carlisle's order, but the other $10,000,000 will not be transported until this first half is recoined.

PERSONAL MENTION.

TOBACCO HABIT EASILY CURED.
A FEW Testimonials from persons who have been cured by the use of Hill's Tablets.
THE OHIO CHEMICAL CO.:
DEAR SIR:—I have been using your cure for tobacco habit, and found it would do what you claim for it. I used ten cents worth of the strongest chewing tobacco a day, and from one to five cigars; or I would smoke from ten to forty pipes of tobacco. Have chewed and smoked for twenty-five years, and two packages of your Tablets cured me so I have no desire for it.
B. M. JAYLORD, Leslie, Mich.
DOBBS FERRY, N. Y.
THE OHIO CHEMICAL CO.:—GENTLEMEN:—Some time ago I sent for $1.00 worth of your Tablets for Tobacco Habit. I received them all right and, although I was both a heavy smoker and chewer, they did the work in less than three days. I am cured.
Truly yours, MATHEW JOHNSON, P. O. Box 45.
PITTSBURGH, PA.
THE OHIO CHEMICAL CO.:—GENTLEMEN:—It gives me pleasure to speak a word of praise for your Tablets. My son was strongly addicted to the use of liquor, and through a friend, I was led to try your Tablets. He was a heavy and constant drinker, but after using your Tablets but three days he quit drinking, and will not touch liquor of any kind. I have waited four month before writing you, in order to know the cure was permanent. Yours truly,
MRS. HELEN MORRISON.
CINCINNATI, OHIO.
THE OHIO CHEMICAL CO:—GENTLEMEN:—Your Tablets have performed a miracle in my case. I have used morphine, hypodermically, for seven years, and have been cured by the use of two packages of your Tablets, and without any effort on my part. W. L. LUTEMAN.

—Centre Hall wants an ordinance to keep the cows off her streets.

—Mr. John Furst, of Williamsport, is visiting relatives in Bellefonte.

—The apples are about all picked and the cider mills are closing down.

—It is said there are several cases of diphtheria at present in Bellefonte.

—Bellefonte is soon to have a new milk route, to be started by Mr. Al Grove.

—All the business places in Bellefonte were closed Thursday from 2 to 4 o'clock.

—John C. Miller is now moving some of his furniture into his new house on East Linn street.

—The blending of colors took place near Baum's livery stable on Wednesday, by a colored person and a white man. When separated, they were a light seal brown.

—Scientists say the corn is disappearing from the human foot. For all its usefulness as a weather barometer it's going to be a long bright day for humanity when it's gone.

—Mr. W. C. Storm's new house on North Spring street will be completed and ready for occupancy by the first of December. It will be one of the handsomest residences on Spring street.

—Business is improving over the Snow Shoe branch of the Pennsylvania railroad. Wednesday night the company had to run a special out and back to bring in all the coal accumulated at Snow Shoe.

—The Pennsylvania Railroad carried to the World's Fair from May 1 to the close 1,766,000 passengers, while the Baltimore and Ohio carried 581,000. The Reading's figures have not yet been given out.

—It is rumored that the ore banks of the Valentine Iron Company are to be started up again next week, for the day term. It is to be hoped that this is true; it would at least give the men who work there something to live on.

—It is said that Bellefonte stands third in the list of towns sending large representations to the World's Fair at Chicago. It is estimated that fully $20,000 were expended during tde summer by Centre countians in World's Fair travel.

—Cyrus Gordon, Esq., who was elected Judge of the Clearfield county courts last Tuesday, was a former citizen of Walker township, this county. Judge Krebs, his defeated opponent, was formerly a citizen of Ferguson township, this county.

—Clement Dale and family are moving from their residence on Willow Bank street to Mr. Dale's new home on Allegheny street, next door to the new Lutheran church. Mr. Dale and family will be an admirable acquisition to that locality.

—There are boys in this town not taller than a yard stick who can get off "swear words" in the highest style known to the art. It would make an army teamster green with envy to hear the blood curdling oaths utilized by young America in giving emphasis to his speech. Don't do it, there's nothing in it.

—"The Bellefonte Daily News has been revived, and comes to us looking neater than ever, and full of spicy, local happenings. It deserves the hearty support of the citizens of Bellefonte."—Philipsburg Journal. We could give several columns of just such flattering notices from our various exchanges, but we are too modest.

—Great effort is now being put forth to induce young men to join the Young Men's Christian Association. If fifty members can be obtained, at the regulation fee, both rooms will be provided, and each member will have the free use of these rooms as well as of gymnasium. There will also be a night school started where book keeping and other clerical work will be taught.

A NARROW ESCAPE!

How it Happened.

The following remarkable event in a lady's life will interest the reader: "For a long time I had a terrible pain at my heart, which fluttered almost incessantly. I had no appetite and could not sleep. I would be compelled to sit up in bed and belch gas from my stomach until I thought every minute would be my last. There was a feeling of oppression about my heart, and I was afraid to draw a full breath. I couldn't sweep a room without sitting down and resting; but, thank God, by the help of New Heart Cure all that is past and I feel like another woman. Before using the New Heart Cure I had taken different so-called remedies and been treated by doctors without any benefit until I was quite discouraged and disgusted. My husband bought me a bottle of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and am happy to say I never regretted it. I now have a splendid appetite and am well. I weighed 125 pounds when I began taking the remedy, and now I weigh 130½. The effect in my case has been truly marvelous, and far surpasses any other medicine I have ever taken or any benefit I ever received from physicians."—Mrs. Harry Starr, Sparrowville, Pa., October 12, 1892.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists, or by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles $5, express prepaid. This great discovery by an eminent specialist in heart disease, contains neither opiates nor dangerous drugs.

IN MEMORIUM.

Report of the Services Held in the Court House.

At 10.30 Judge Furst called the meeting to order and in a very appropriate speech formally announced the purpose of the meeting—a gathering to pay a last tribute to the memory of one who all held dear. Judge Furst spoke feelingly of the departed mentioning a number of touching incidents of a personal character. For twenty years Mr. Orvis stood as the leading light before the bar of this county, if not this judicial district. The life that has now gone out is closed without a blemish or a stain.

The committee on resolutions, through its chairman, Hon. John B. Linn, made its report. The same set forth the noble and emblematic life of the departed, regret for his sad and sudden death and expressions of unending sorrow for the member who shall never again appear amongst us.

General Beaver in seconding the motion for the adoption of the resolutions offered spoke briefly of the life of Judge Orvis. General Beaver stated that he had been intimately acquainted with Judge Orvis since 1864, and in that time he had ample opportunity to measure his full capacity as a man; and it would take a long rule to make the measurement. Mr. Orvis was distinguished from any other man by his intense individuality. His love of truth and right in the trial of a case was something extraordinary. He was genial and affable and especially delighted in the society and companionship of young men. As a lawyer, he was great. His general characteristics could never be overstated. But his particular character was his always calm and courteous manner. Even in the trial of the most difficult and most arduous cases, he never became ruffled. He was a lawyer who could not only tell you what the law was, but he could tell you what the law ought to be. His marvellous memory enabled him to try a case in one place one day and in another next day, without any preparation whatever. As a Judge he was absolutely fearless but just as absolutely fair. As a citizen Judge Orvis measured up to the full demands of the requirements of his intense nature. He counted death to falter, not to die. His body may repose in the dust, but his memory will live with you forever.

John M. Bailey Esq., on behalf of the bar of Huntingdon county, presented a minute of respect there adopted. The speaker briefly dwelt upon his knowledged of the many traits of the noble character of the deceased.

As representative of the bar of Clinton county, W. C. Kress, spoke of his knowledge of the life and work of the deceased. He became a great man, in spite of his seening diffidence. But he was a most genial and friendly man to those who knew him well. Mr. Kress then presented the minute as adopted by the Clinton county bar.

Lawyer Davison, spoke on behalf of the bar of Blair county.

Representatives were also present from the bar of Clearfield county and that of Lycoming county, both of which sent minutes of respect,

THE LOCAL NEWSPAPER.

The local newspaper is commented upon in the following manner by a minister of the gospel, and is worthy of a careful notice: "Your papers tell you when to go to church, to county court, when to send your children to school or anywhere you want to go. It tells you who is dead, who is sick, who is born, and many other things you would like to know. It calls attention to public enterprises and advocates the best schools and law and order of your town. It records the marriage of your daughter, the death of your son, and the illness of your wife free of charge. It sets forth advantages and attractions of the town, and invites immigration, and is the first to welcome newcomers. Yet in spite of all these benefits, some people say that the home paper is not half so good as some city paper that has no interest in their business or success."

HISTORY REPEATED.

From an independent and umbiased standpoint, the result of Tuesday's elections was simply an example of history repeating itself. The cyclone that seemed to overwhelm the democratic party was simply the result of foreseen circumstances. In almost every instance, after a presidential campaign the first election of any importance is a reverse of the party in power. Tuesday's election, therefore, was no exception to the general rule.

DOG TAX.

Under a recent act of assembly, assessors are to return the dogs found in their district, and the county commissioners shall fix the rate of tax. The tax will be collected by the collectors of county tax and paid into the county fund. Damages for sheep killed by dogs shall be paid out of the county treasury. The tax rate can not exceed $2 and $4 and in most instances will be much less than under the old act.

A PLEASANT FAREWELL.

As has already been stated Charles E. Gilmour will soon move from Tyrone to Bellefonte to become Engineer on the new railroad. His Tyrone friends gave him a nice send off according to the Tyrone Herald, the particulars of which we clip, as follows:

There was a pleasant gathering Tuesday evening at the home of Charles E. Gilmour an Cameron avenue. As Mr. Gilmoure is about to leave Tyrone, his class in the Presbyterian Sunday school met at his residence to spend an evening with him socially before their intimate relations should be dissolved. A notable feature of the occasion was the presentation to Mr. Gilmour of a fine Webster's International Dictionary with stand, by his class. B. F. Leff made the presentation speech and took the teacher completely by surprise. Mr. Gilmour responded gracefully. After singing and other excercises and social diversions, Mrs. Gilmour surprised the gathering with a spendid repast. Twenty-five were present.

FAR AND WIDE.

Not on this broad continent alone, but in malarial breeding topical regions, in Guatemala, Mexico, South America, the Isthmus of Panama, and elsewhere, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters affords to inhabitants and sojourners protection against malaria. The miner, the freshly arrived immigrant, the tilier of the virgin soil newly robbed of its forests by the axe of the pioneer, find in the superb antifebrile specific a preserver against the poisonous miasma which in vast districts rich in natural resources, is yet fertile in disease. It annihilates disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, fortifies those who use it against rheumatic ailments breed and fostered by outdoor exposure; infuses genial warmth into a frame chilled by a rigorous temperature, and robs of their power to harm morning and evening mists and vapors laden with hurtfulness; strengthens the weak and conquers incipient kidney trouble.

—The worthy Sunday school superintendent was illustrating the text. "Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap." Superintendent—If I want to raise a crop of turnips, what sort of seed must I sow? Children—Turnip seed. Superintendent—If I want to raise a crop of tomatoes, what kind of seed must I sow? Children—Tomato seed. Superintendent—Very good. Now if you want to raise a crop of good manhood, what kind of seed must you sow? An observer who kept tally reported that the school on test vote was a tie between turnip seed and tomato seed.

—The foundation for the new freight depot of the Central Pa. R. R., in this place is now being put down. The rails came in on Wednesday and to-day the track was laid up to town and to-morrow a train will run from here to Mill Hall, the entire length of the road. A new turn table has been received and will be put in down below the Lamb street bridge. It won't be long now until we will hear the screech of the locomotive over the new road.

—Yesterday evening's Gazette states "that as Bellefonte has two daily papers the people will have to decide which one they will have." The people of Bellefonte decided that question whilst the Gazette was in its grave by subscribing for the DAILY NEWS. The NEWS Publishing Co. don't force this journal on persons; it is only sent to subscribers from whom pay is expected.

THEIR MAJORITIES.

The democratic candidates elected on Tuesday are credited with the following majorities. Condo, 256; Miles, 366; Rumberger, 830; Morrison, 882; Goodhart, 498; Adams, 325; Strohm over Riddle, 51. On the State ticket Osborn's majority was 616, and Thompson's 614. There is a lesson in the above for both old parties to heed and profit by.

FIRE AT ANTES FORT.

Last Thursday morning a large warehouse owned by Mr. Gheen, merchant, was destroyed by fire. It contained a large stock of leaf tobacco and merchandise. The total loss will be about $30,000; insurance $16,000. Mr. Gheen, a few years ago, owned a store in Bellefonte and is known to many of our people.

—John H. Odenkirk was buried at Centre Hall on Wednesday with the beautiful ceremony of the Veteran Legion, No. 69, of Bellefonte, of which he was an honored member. Members of the Legion from this place attended his funeral in a body. The deceased belonged to the 148th Pa. Vol., and was one of the best soldiers from Centre county.

TRAINING SCHOOL.

The soldiers' orphan school commissioners have not yet decided where to locate the new manual training school in this state. This school should be located at State College, which would be a most suitable place. A move should be made in that direction.

JUDGE ORVIS' FUNERAL.

Many Prominent Personages Present from a Distance.

A large assemblage of sorrowful friends and neighbors gathered at the residence of the late Judge Orvis, on East Linn street, Thursday afternoon, to pay the last tribute of respect to one whose death has been universally mourned and lamented. Rev. Charles Long, of Lock Haven, was the officiating minister, assisted by Revs. Laurie, Houck and Noll, of this place. The remarks were simple and of a character directly bearing upon the life of the deceased. The pall bearers were Gen. James A. Beaver, Judge Austin O. Furst, Hon. C. A. Mayer, of Lock Haven; Congressman A. C. Hopkins, of Williamsport; George W. Atherton, of State College; Hon. R. S. Peale, of Lock Haven; Gen. D. H. Hastings and Col. J. L. Spangler. The floral offerings were profuse, beautiful and most appropriate. Distinguished men from many of the surrounding towns, who came in special trains to be present on this sad occasion were as ifollows: John G Reading, J T Fredericks, William T McCormick, H T Ames, Col F E Embeck, C J Reilly, Congressman A C Hopkins and wife, H T Hall and E Canfield, of Williamsport. Hon S R Peale, Judge C A Mayer, Wm P Mitchell and wife, Captain W C Kress, John Noble, I M Harvey, Esq, Rev Charles S Long, John C Smith and others from Lock Haven; Judge elect Martin Bell, of Hollidaysburg; George B Orlady, Esq, and Hon John M Bailey, of Huntingdon; Judge David L Krebs, Judge elect Cyrus T Gordon, Allison O Smith, Capt C W Clarke, Ex-State Senator Betz, Will Wallace Jr., A R McQuown, editor of the Raftsman's Journal, Smith Wilson, Asbury Lee, Newton Shaw, and James Levy, of Clearfield; B Weber, R P Long, Miss Mary Mitchell, O A Harvey and W T Harvey, of Howard; John G Uzzle, Geo. Uzzle and W R Haynes and wife of Snow Shoe; E A Smith of Milesburg; R C Leathers of Mt. Eagle; L M Rishell, of Farmers Mills; E A Manley and H F Lucas, of Howard; A G Morris and Supt. S S Blair, of the Tyrone Division of the P R R, from Tyrone; George W McGaffey Esq, of Philipsburg; Col James L Milliken, of Milroy; Thomas Savage, of Houtzdale; Hon W Fiske Codrad, of Tyrone; Ex-Searg. at Arms of the House of Rep. Geo. Hutchinson, of Warriors-Mark, and many other prominent men throughout the State. Dr George W Atherton, Dr Wm Frear, Professors Buckhout, Osmond, Reber, and Ihlseng, Lieut. McCaskey, Dr Armsby, Professors Waters and Beyer represented the Pennsylvania state College, of which Judge Orvis had always been a patron and a member of the Board of Trustees.

THANKSGIVING ASSEMBLY.

The Senior class of the Pennsylvania State College will give the annual Thanksgiving assembly, in the College Armory, on Friday evening, December first. The patronesses will be Mrs. Daniel H. Hastings, Mrs. James A. Beaver, Mrs. Edward Colt, Mrs. J. M. Smith, Mrs. A. P. McDonald, Mrs. Charles W. Roberts, Mrs. James A. Johnson, Mrs. J. A. Bucher, Mrs. C. G. Furst, Mrs. William A. simpson, Mrs. Frank Delo, Mrs. Thomas W. Kinkaid, Mrs. George W. Atherton, Miss Harriet McElwain, and Mrs. Clide E. Stitzer. The class committee is composed of A. Dinsmore Belt, G. Arthur Guyer, John B. Hench, Paul B. Breneman, Charles E. Kremer, and Fred Barndollar.

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

Last Friday evening a very serious accident befel a young man by the name of Devinney, of near Morrisdale Mines, Clearfield county. Young Devinney and Dr. Paul Thorn were in a buggy near the Beech Creek railroad at the above named place, when the horse took fright at a freight train and upset the buggy, throwing both men out. Thorn was slightly hurt and Devinney was seriously maimed for life. In falling one of his ears came in contact with a broken bottle and the sharp glass cut his ear off close to his head. When he was picked up his ear lay on the ground.

—The funeral of Mr. John W. Moore, who died very suddenly on Monday night, took place at the house on Howard street on Thursday morning, at 10 o'clock, and was largely attended. Rev. M. O. Noll, of the Reformed church, preached an eloquent and touching sermon. The singing of Misses Lulu Harper, Grace Lukenbach and Charles Roan was especially appropriate. The pall bearers were H. C. Weaver, Col. D. K. Tate, Hunter Knisely, T. R. Hamilton, Charles Eckenroth and John Derstine. Interment was made at the Union cemetery.

A CURIOUS SIGHT.

In Brookville on Wednesday was seen a novel sight illustrating the republican cyclone of Tuesday. Two wags, evidently republicans, put a dead rooster and a live 'coon in a box two feet square, with strips nailed on each side. This they had in a wagon and drove from one end of the main street to the other, never saying a word. The 'coon meanwhile had pounced on the rooster and was tearing away at it for dear life. It was certainly a very emphatic way of illustrating the result of the election.

—It is just and proper to praise the good acts of persons after death, but it would be much better for all concerned if men's good acts were praised during their lives. If all men had proper credit given them for their good deeds when living it would not be very long before the dawn of the much desired millenium would be visible and the universal brotherhood of man would be a demonstrated fact, instead of a theory, as it is at present.

—What is Farce Comedy but a melrange of pretty faces and merry comedians, nimble heels and good voices, striking dresses and catchy music? And where is there a more artistic combination of all these elements than in the Dazzler? It is the very happiness of the coubination in this case that has made The Dazzler such a wonderful success. —The Lingle property in Gregg and Potter township was sold last Saturday, says the Centre Reporter, as follows: The James Lingle, 183 acres, farm to Mrs. Martha Odenkirk for $30 an acre. The Thomas Lingle farm, 155 acres, to Mrs. Thomas Lingle, for $22 per acre. The 45 acre tract of timber land in Gregg township was purchased by John D. Decker for $21 an acre.

Road Grading Machinery

The Champion Road Grader has fulfilled all the claims made for its superior capacity. The Supervisors of Union Township purchased one during the spring of 1892, with which they have made the most improved public roads in Centre county. Prior to this year the Supervisors were required to assess six mills road taxes—this year, 1893, they assessed four mills, next year, 1894, they propose to assess three mills road taxes and improve their roads more than they did with six mills road taxes before they purchased their Champion Road Grader from Messrs. McCalmont & Co. Formerly the tax payers had to do the work with shovels and picks, now the horses do the most of the work.

Champion Rock Crusher.

The Champion Rock Crusher has no equal or competitor, when we compare the quantity of stone crushed in one day, seventy to eighty tons, with the power required to operate it—for the proof of which, we refer those interested or who may want to buy a stone crusher to improve their public roads, to the supervisors and tax payers of Walker twp. Centre Co., Pa., as well as to S. D. Tice, a contractor of Howard, and Wallace White, a contractor of Spring township, Centre Co., Pa., who crushes stone for for macadamizing streets and turnpikes.

Champion Road Roller

After your roads and streets are macadamized, the Champion Road Roller, operated by horses, can be used to great advantage in rolling down the loose stone to make the road smooth. Those in want of Road Machinery will promote their own interest by inspecting the above machinery before purchasing.

Canada Thistle - - Exterminator.

FACTORY AT BELLEFONTE, PA., IN WHAT IS KNOWN AS THE BELLEFONTE CAR WORKS.

This is a discovery that is destined to prove a blessing to every farmer and land owner.

Whites Canada Thistle Exterminator is a preparation discovered and put on the market by Samuel White, of Bellefonte, Pa. A tablespoonful of this preparation placed on a thistle will kill every stalk so treated in five days from the top of the ground to the extreme length of the root. This has been proven by actual experiment. If applied according to directions furnished with every lot sold it is guaranteed to do the work. A number of Centre county land owners have given the Exterminator a thorough trial, among whom are Brockerhoff Bros. and W. Fred Reynolds. Mr. Reynolds has instructed his farmers to get as much as is needed to exterminate this pest from all of his farms.

—The Bonanza Fanning Mill company own the patent right of the State on their separator.

—Reports from the camps in the mountains are that the hunting is good, but the game scarce.

—The infant child, aged about 4 weeks, of Mr. and Mrs. James McCafferty died on Saturday.

—Chicken thieves and night corn huskers will soon find themselves in limbo, if they persist in their thieving.

—The roads along Jack's mountains, toward McVeytown, are infected with robbers who have attacked several parties.

—The new vestry choir in the Episcopal church, under the leadership of Mr. Goodwin, rendered exellent music on Sunday.

—Rev. G. P. Sarvis. of Port Matilda, is conducting a very successful revival meeting at the Hickory Bottom school house.

—Quite a large number of Bellefonters went to State College Frsday evening to enjoy the pleasures of the social hop given at that place.

—Corporal Musser, author of "Milesburg murmurings," says all is serene at that place and happiness and content prevails there.

—The small boy is no longer visible on our streets after 8 p. m. The cows, since they became acquainted with constable Pifer, are also mon este.

—High Constable Piper rounded up a number of cows on Sunday. His diligence to his business seems to be creating quite a stir among cow owners.

—A brief session of argument court was held on Monday but the only business transacted was the rearrangement of the trial list for the special week of court.

—The Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A. held a meeting on Friday evening. Most of the members were present and some important business was transacted.

—It is confidentially rumored on the streets that capitalists, with a citizen of Bellefonte at the head, are going to purchase the glass works. We hope the rumor may prove true.

—If the young gentlemen, of this place, who lost the pair of suspenders on the pike near Mr. Frank McCoy's, will call on a certain young lady on Beaver street, she will gladly return same, and ask no reward.

—There was a good attendance at Christian Endeavor Sunday evening. Mr. James Hughes led the meeting, taking for his subject "Our love tested by our gifts." The meeting was conducted from memory and was much enjoyed.

—The Central Pennsylvania railroad has constructed a telegraph and telephone line along its road between Bellefonte and Mill Hall. On Friday the first new engine for use on this line made its appearance in the northeastern part of the borough.

—A fair audience was present at the Academy Friday evening to witness the literary entertainment given by the Pierian and Addisonian literary societies of that institution. The entertainment was exceedingly interesting as well as instructive.

—S. M. Buck, of this place, who has the contract for constructing the Howard water works, is pushing the work rapidly, the pipe already being laid from reservoir to the borough line a distance of a mile. Mr. Buck is a rusher when he takes a thing in hand.

—In a Spring street parlor Saturday night the following conversation was overheard. "Dearest, if I should ask you in French if I might kiss you, what would you say?" Her scanty knowledge of French enabled her to say "Billet doux." It is needless to say the answer was entirely satisfactory.

—Mr. William P. Duncan, of Philipsburg, transacted business and greeted friends in Bellefonte last Saturday. Mr. Duncan at one time was a prominent citizen of this place and now, whenever he comes over here, he is always sure of a hearty welcome from all acquaintances.

—Special services were held in the Lutheran church Sunday morning at 10.30. In the afternoon the Y. M. C. A. held a Union meeting in that church. It was led by Mr. Malcolm Laurie. General Beaver and others made interesting addresses. The church was crowded at every service.

—Rev. William Laurie, D. D., filled the pulpit at the Presbyterian church on Sunday, both morning and evening. The music at this church is always of a high order. Sunday evening Miss Bessie Dorworth and Miss Blanche Hayes rendered very sweetly as a duet the piece entitled "I'm praying for you."

—Any young man who will carry the left hind foot of a rabbit, caught in a cemetery at 12 midnight on the first Sunday in the month, will always be lucky and will be able to hoodo any young lady he choses to become his wife. Frances Speer carries one, so look out for a wedding soon. John Condo carries one, hence his senses at the polls.

THREE WILLS PROBATED.

Those of Junge Orvis, John Odenkirk and John Homan.

Friday was a good day for the Register of Wills of Centre county, Mr. John A. Rupp. Three of these legal instruments were probated and filed for record. The first was that of who leaves an estate valued at one hundred thousand dollars, or thereabouts. Mr. Orvis had life insurance to the amount of $110,000. In his will Mr. Orvis devised and bequeathed to his executors, to be held in trust and invested, the sum of $10,000, the interest of which is to be used for the support and education of his youngest daughter, Caroline Atwood Orvis; the principal and any accrued interest to be paid her in full when she shall arrive at the age of twenty-five years. To his daughters Annie, now Mrs. Harry Keller, and Mrs. Canfield, he bequeaths outright the sum of $10,000 to each. To his son, Ellis L., is bequeathed the sum of $10,000, his magnificent law library, and all his interest and uncollected book accounts in and of the law firm of Orvis, Bower & Orvis. All the rest and residue of his estate, of whatsoever kind and wheresoever situated, is bequeathed without reserve or proviso, to his beloved wife, Caroline E. Orvis; and he further directs and appoints his wife, Caroline E., and his son, Ellis L., as his executrix and executor to settle and arrange his estate. Mr. Orvis' will was executed in August, 1890.

JOHN H. ODENKIRK,

in his last will and testament, leaves all his property, of whatever kind it may be, to his wife, Mary E., to hold and use during her life and justly dispose of at her death.

JOHN HOMAN,

in his will, devised and bequeathed to each of his children, namely, Henry, George, John, B. Franklin; Mary A. Miller and Eliza Brumgard, the farms on which they now reside, with the proviso that they each and all pay a yearly rental and dower to his beloved wife until her death. He also bequeaths to Mrs. Brumgard the sum of $4,000 outright. Mr. Homan's estate is composed of six farms situated in College, Harris, Ferguson and Walker townships; timber lands in Gregg and Ferguson and money at interest.

CENTRE COUNTY'S FINANCES.

The largest check ever sent by the commissioners of Centre County to the treasurer of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania was sent Friday by commissioners Adams and Strohm. It was for $10,141,-32 due the state for tax on judgments, bonds and money at interest in this county. Heretofore persons having money at interest claimed they could not make correct returns of the same and asked mercy at the hands of the commissioner not to exact the percentage, which would have been added if the assessors had made the estimates. The Board of Commissioners had the sand to urge the fulfillment of the oaths, taken by the assessors, hence the result is more favorable to the treasury of the state. The commissioners and treasurer inform us that the finances of the county are in first class condition and a fair prospect of remaining so. Whatever other faults may be ascribed to our commissioners, they have kept the finances of the county in first-class condition.

THE CAUSE.

A prominent business man of this county, who takes but little interest in partisan politics, upon asking his opinion of the cause of the large Republican majorities said that the result was from several causes combined; the first being, the suspension of pensions which arrayed the pensioners, their immediate friends and all truly patriotic citizens against the administration. Second, the hard times produced by the panic, throwing out of employment hundreds of thousands of working men. Third, congress, dilly dallying on the silver repeal bill, which had nothing to do with the panic, disgusted a great many people. Fourth, the uncertainty of what action congress would take on the tariff question. With these causes combined no national administration could stand up against.

—On Friday the office desks and furniture were put in the offices of the Central Pennsylvania railroad company, on the second floor of the Bush Arcade. Three nice, large rooms have been fixed and fitted up with comfortable, convenient, even elegant, furnishings, and here, for a year or so, at least, will be conducted the business of this road, which it is believed will prove a bonanza for this town. In these offices will be stationed Superintendent J. W. Gephart, general freight agent Warfel, with their assistants and clerks, and probably all the important officials of the road, with the exception of the President, whose office will be in Philadelphia.

HOTEL BRANT.

Transient persons desiring to stop at a first class hotel, at moderate rates, or persons desiring good board and rooms, will be accommodated at the "Brant," corner of Allegheny and Bishop streets, the well known Hotel caterer, Henry Yeager, proprietor, Harry Ryan, the celebrated mixoligist, attends to the refreshment department.

—A new schedule will go into effect on the P. R. R. main line on Sunday. Among the changes that will take place will be the taking off the Columbian and Keystone expresses, the putting of west bound Limited on earlier time and Fast Line a little later. No new trains will be added to the middle division, the travel at present not justifying an increase.

HE WALKED HOME.

On Sunday Messrs. Edwin F. Garman, Andy Cruse, Jr., and Charles Richards started out for a ride on their bicycles. They went as far as Howard. On the return trip, when in the neighborhood of Andrew Glenn's, on the Curtin farm, they became hungry and stopped for something to eat. They managed to get away with a loof of bread and a large bucket of milk, then started on their journey home. But Ed. must have eaten too much and the load was more than his wheel could bear. They had not gone far till down came the wheel Edwin F. and all, and the result was he had to walk home and push his bicycle. Ed says he likes to ride a wheel but don't like to walk several miles to get home and push the wheel, into the bargain.

NEW ENTERPRISE.

The Little Bonanza Fanning Mill and Grain Separator company was organized in Bellefonte, Pa., Nov. 9, 1893, by the election of the following officers:

President, R. C. Leathers; Vice President, Grant Hoover; Secretary and Solicitor. H. H. Harshberger; Treasurer, G. H. Lyman; General Manager, W. Miles Walker. Board of Directors, B. K. Henderson, R. C. Hoover, Jerry Ryan and Emmet Brannon. The company has already sold one hundred of these gem separators and have ordered a car load from Ohio, which will be here this week, to supply the demand until more are manufactured at the Phoenix planing mill, at this place. The company starts out well and is furnishing the farmers with the cheapest and best grain separator ever invented.

RAILROAD NEWS.

Just three weeks from to-day, or on Monday, December 4th, the Central Pennsylvania railroad will be opened for traffic to the people of this place and vicinity. Work will be commenced this week on the structure of the freight depot, and the engineers are now at work laying out the site for the passenger station, which will be between the freight building and Lamb street.

A corps of engineers were at work last week surveying a route for a road from Bellefonte to Huntingdon, via. Halfmoon and Spruce Creek valleys. Our informant could not, at present, give us the company that was doing this work, but it is supposed to be the Central Pennsylvania.

SUICIDE AT COALPOTT.

Joseph Welsh, aged about 55 years, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head with a revolver. His body was found on Saturday morning by two men. In his right hand he held a revolver and on a table near by was found a letter written in German in which he says his wife caused his troubles and that he killed himself to save her the worry of procuring a divorce. It seems that he and his wife quarrelled frequently, their last one occuring on Thursday, when she left him. No one had seen him until Saturday morning, when he was found dead.

PARTNERSHIP DISSOLVED.

The law firm of Beaver, Gephart & Dale, composed of General James A Beaver J. W. Gephart and J. M. Dale, was on Friday dissolved by mutual consent, J. W. Gephart retiring to devote his entire time and attention to the management of the Central Pennsylvania railroad, of which he is Superintendent, as well as the Valentine Iron Company. The business of the law firm will in the future be conducted by General Beaver and Mr. Dale, both lawyers of great ability.

JOHNSON BROUGHT BACK.

As stated in Saturday's NEWS Sheriff Ishler went to Kane in response to a telegram that the escaped prisoner, Charles Johnson, had been captured in that place and was held awaiting his arrival. The Sheriff got his man on Saturday and returned as far as Lock Haven where he spent the night. Sunday morning he telephoned to liveryman McCullough to come down and haul them up, which he did, and the prisoner was once more behind bars Sunday evening.

CURIOUS SUIT FOR DAMAGE.

Suit has been brought by Attorney J. Howard Morrison, counsel for August Johnson, against the Pennsylvania railroad to recover $5,000 damages for alleged personal injuries. Johnson was working on the Trenton cut-off when a woman walked in front of the locomotive. She was hit by the engine and thrown against Johnson, breaking his nose and injuring him. The woman was killed and Johnson has sued the railroad company for hitting him with a corpse.

The five comedians of The Dazzler make a great team. The fun is fast and furious which they are on the stage, and the audience grows uproarious with merriment. songs, dances and burlesques of the famous five form a fitting and lively climax to the fun of the second act. Garman's opera house Friday November 17.

—Andrew Dollar and John Rodgers, of Mifflin county, near Lewistown, quarreled about some fence posts and Rodgers knocked Dollar down with his fist. Dollar got up, walked home, took to his bed and died two days after from the effect of the blow. Rodgers was arrested and is now in jail awaiting trial for manslaughter.

FEMININE MEDITATIONS.

Foot ball seems to be one of the athletic sports which females do not indulge in. It is probably beneath their notice.

On the occasion of "Kellar" at the opera house many people were enthusiastic in their praise of the music furnished by the Bellefonte Orchestra. So many of the entertainments at the opera house are lacking by way of good music that it was a treat to listen to such delightful music as the Bellefonte Orchestra can furnish.

Mrs. D. H. Hastings' illness has been fraught with much anxiety to her many friends. She is a lady whose pleasing personality wins for her, and holds a multitude of warm friends. Owing to the fact that an event is likely to occur at the Generals' beautiful home, sometime in the near future, many false rumors have been current.

Miss Patty Lane informs her friends in this place that she is having a delightful time attending the homelike school of Miss McCullough, at Glencoe, Md. The Delsart system of physical culture is taught also, dancing with assemblies every other Friday. Miss Patty is also taking violin lessons.

There is many a man who has a pain at his side; that is, a "window pane." And it is more than likely that there has been a small boy in that household who has suffered pain, also, for the damage he done to the window.

In speaking of dentists recently certain ladies were giving their opinion of these professional men in general. There must be a certain individuality about the dentist in order to make him a success among the feminine element. It seems to be the general impression that all dentists have a way of stroking the arm or patting the cheek of their lady patrons. Now this is nothing; they merely show some sympathy for the pain they have caused, and it is probably a part of their profession, for they all are alike in this respect, whether married or single. If they only knew what some of the ladies called them. For instance, Dr. so and so "is just lovely, so polite, and gentle;" while another Dr. "is a bear, and another as rough as a black smith.

Bellefonte has many hard workers in the W. C. T. U. organization, and yet their meetings lack some in interest, and are not as well attended as they might be. How would it do to copy somewhat after the country sisters and hold some of their weekly meetings at the homes of their members, thus taking more of sociability, while discussing temperance matters. Some slight refreshments might be offered at the close, such as bread and butter sandwiches with a cup of tea or chocolate. The W. C. T. U. can surely take much credit to itself for keeping the town of Beech Creek a temperance place, as no liquor has been sold in that town for six years.

Taking into consideration the many uses that electricity has been put to, and the many more that are sure to follow, housework ought to be accomplished with much ease. Just now the coffee has only to be put into the mill and turn on the electric current and it is ground in short order. The washing machine is also turned by its agency. Then if you desire hash, just put the meat in the bowl and adjust the knife and your meat is soon chopped. Then next comes the long talked of spanking machine. This is a great labor saving device. No rushing down into the back yard for a switch, only to make your arm ache in applying it, but just clap the refractory urchin into the machine and turn the lever and the spanking proceeds right for the seat of war. Now let somebody invent an electric carpet sweeper that will consume its own dust, and receive the gratitude of womankind.

DIED AT STATE COLLEGE.

A telephone dispatch from State College announced the death, at that place, Sunday morning at 6 o'clock, of Mrs. Pemberton, wife of John Pemberton, a retired naval engineer. Mrs. Pemberton's death was caused by diabetes, from which she had long been a sufferer, although it was not until about three weeks ago that she became dangerously ill. Tho remains will be taken on the 5.15 train to-morrow evening to Tarrytown, New York, where interment will take place.

—Ask some business men for an advertisement or some locals and they'll say they don't believe in advertising, as a paper is never (hardly ever) read. But let that man be caught kissing his neighbor's wife and his tune changes instantly and if the printing office is in the garret of a seventeen story building he will climb to the top and beg the editor to keep quiet and not publish his misdoings in the paper where everybody will read them.

—On Saturday afternoon Clem. Sager, a young son of Isaac Sager, who lives north of Bellefonte, was playing on the pike near Morris' lime kilns. A gentleman on horseback came riding along, the horse frightened at the boy and in his frantic endeavors to escape from his rider, struck the boy twice, severely, though not seriously injuring him. At this writing the lad is getting along as well as could be expected.

Mr. Isaiah Goodfellow, of Lock Haven, is visiting friends in Bellefonte.

Messrs Leonard Rhone, M. S. Rhone and N. V. Rhone spent last Sunday in Williamsport.

Mrs. Hammond Sechler departed from home on Wednesday for a social visit with friends in Williamsport.

Miss Linnie Benner, of this place departed Friday evening at 5.20 for Tyrone where she will visit friends.

Mr. Steele Hunter is again seen on our streets after being laid up with Sciatic rheumatism for the past three weeks.

Mr. Daniel Garman, one of Bellefonte's prominent citizens, returned home to-day after an extended visit of several weeks.

Mr. H. E. Duck, of Millheim, insurance director of the Centre Hall Insurance company, transacted business in Bellefonte today.

Mr. Charles Gilmour and family arrived in Bellefonte Friday evening and will soon be domiciled in their future home on Spring street.

Mr. J. Linn Harris, after spending several days pleasantly with friends in Williamsport, has returned to his home in this place.

Mr. S. H. Diehl is now giving stereopticon views and a lecture on the World's Fair. Mr. Diehl can do the business to perfection.

Mr. N. B. Eby, the popular distiller of Woodward, spent Monday night in Bellefonte on his way home from a business trip to Snow Shoe.

Dr. L. R. Hensyl, of Howard, transacted business between trains in Bellefonte on Thursday. The Doctor is a rushing fellow and never wastes time in useless words or work.

Mr. John Noll, one of Bellefonte's best masons, is putting down the foundation walls for the new Central Pennsylvania depot in this place. Work on the depot proper will be commenced next week.

Mrs. W. L. Daggett, wife of the proprietor of the Bush House, this place, is away visiting friends at Elmira, Watkin's Glen and other places in New York State. She expects to be absent about two weeks.

Mr. Daniel Robb and daughter, Miss Gussie, from Willows, Joe Davis county, Illinois, is visiting his friends in this county. At present he is stopping with his brother, Erastus Robb, on Beaver street.

Mr. Robert U. Wasson, of Lemont, and Prof. Hosterman, passed through Bellefonte on Monday on their way to Huntingdon, where they go to attend the county institute in session at that place this week.

That popular green groceryman, Mr. John Sourbeck, is off on a trip to New York State buying a car load of grapes, etc. During his absence his store is under the supervision of Mr. Jacob Runkle, of the South Ward.

Mr. David Glenn, one of Bellefonte's best known citizens, and who for the past year has been busily engaged as government inspector at Eby's distillery, at Woodward, is at present circulating among his many friends in this place.

Mr. John C. Miller and family have vacated the house on Spring street, which they have occupied the past couple of years, and Mr. Charles Gilmour and family, of Tyrone, are moving in. Mr. Miller and family will board until their new house on East Linn street is ready for occupancy.

Mr. Henry Hazel, one of the most esteemed and worthy citizens of Madisonburg, was an arrival in Bellefonte on the Lemont train this morning. Although Mr. Hazel will be seventy-five years old next Sunday, this was the first time he ever saw a train or took a ride on the cars. He also paid his first visit to the county jail to-day. This seems truly remarkable, that a man as well preserved as Mr. Hazel, should spend 75 years at the place of his birth and not see a train of cars when, for years, there has been one within ten miles of his home.

—Secretary Cota, of the Young Men's Christian Association, urges all young men to attend the evening meetings and also purchase a membership ticket. These tickets are cheap and every young man should join the Association.

MARRIED.

STRAUB—LINN.—Nov. 9, 1893, at the Evangelical parsonage, by Rev. G. E. Zehner, Mr. Elmer E. Straub and Mrs. Alice A. Linn, both of Bellefonte.

STRUCK BY A TBAIN.

Maggie Miller Seriously Injured on Saturday Afternoon.

On Saturday afternoon, when the train over the Lewisburg road, which leaves the station in this place at 2.15 rounded the curve just above the Valentine Furnace, it struck Miss Maggie Miller, daughter of William Miller, throwing her off the track and seriously, probably fatally injuring her. Mr. Miller, with his family lives on the hill just above the toll gate. He with his wife and two daughters, had been to Bellefonte and were on their way home. Mr. Miller and wife were driving up the pike and the two sisters were walking up the railroad. Maggie, who is very hard of hearing, was in advance of her sister and did not know of the near approach of the train until it struck her, her sister being too far back to get her out of the way. The train was stopped and the unfortiunate girl picked up and taken to the crossing at the toll gate, from which place she was conveyed home and Dr. Harris summoned.

An examination revealed the fact that the young lady was very badly hurt, her left leg being broken below the knee, her right ankle badly broken, one arm broken, the wrist of the other dislocated, besides being badly cut about the head and otherwise seriously cut and bruised. It was a miracle that she escaped instant death. Her wounds were all dressed and at the latest accounts the girl is doing well and likely to recover.

DEATH OF JOHN RANKIN.

Another of Bellefonte's citizens has passed over the river of death. At 8 o'clock on Tuesday John Rankin, son of Joseph A. Rankin, deceased, departed this life after a lingering illness with that dread disease consumption, at the early age of only 32 years. Deceased was a most exemplary young man. When quite young he went into the First National bank as clerk and this position he held for a number of years, until the fatal disease had got such a hold on him that it was necessary to seek a change of climate for the benefit of his health.

Along about 1889 he went to Lower California, in which place he spent several years. While there his health so much improved that he believed himself on a sure road to total recovery. He returned to Bellefonte a year or so ago and joined his brother, W. B. Rankin, in the insurance business. Alas, fatal illusion. Hardly had he again got settled in this the home of his birth, until the dread disease again laid its clammy hold on him, and from that time on he has been growing weaker and weaker. It was not, however, until recently, that he was confined to the house and his bed. So lately, in fact, that few knew of his serious illness until the announcement of his death this morning, which came as a sudden warning of the uncertainty of life.

To mourn his death are left an aged mother, one brother William B. the insurance agent, and a sister, Sarah C. At this writing no arrangements for the funeral have been made.
